

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Oji Holdings Corporation (security code: 3861)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: AA-p
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) Oji Holdings Corporation (the “Company”) is the pure holding company of the Oji Group (the “Group”), with the Group’s share ranking top and second in Japan for paperboard and paper production, respectively. It operates four business segments at home and abroad for diversification, namely: Household and Industrial Materials; Functional Materials; Forest Resources and Environment Marketing; and Printing and Communications Media. It is also focusing on expanding overseas operations, as shown by pulp production bases established in Brazil, Oceania and China and the packaging business operated in Southeast Asia and Oceania. Given the Group’s strong unity in management, JCR reflects the Group’s overall creditworthiness in the Company’s rating.
- (2) In the midst of drastic changes taking place in the business environment, the Company maintains stable earnings capacity. While soaring raw material and fuel prices is the large negative factor at present, strong overseas pulp business has been supporting the performance. JCR evaluates that the Company’s resilience against changes in the external environment has risen with progress in the diversification of businesses in the portfolio. The Company’s policy to make growth investments while respecting certain financial discipline also remains unchanged. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the rating on the Company with Stable outlook. JCR will pay attention to whether the Company can achieve sustainable profit growth through enhancing promising businesses, such as domestic and overseas packaging materials and high-function films, further over the medium-term.
- (3) For the fiscal year ending March 2023 (FY2022), the Company projects an operating income of 105 billion yen, a decline of 12.6% from the previous fiscal year; however, it will likely ensure profits steadily. While sales volume of major products in Japan have been relatively steady, the Household and Industrial Materials and Printing and Communications Media are expected to report a substantial decrease in profits as they are unable to catch up with higher raw material and fuel prices in reflecting them to sales prices. On the other hand, in addition to steady performance of the Functional Materials due to an effect of increasing production volume overseas, the Forest Resources and Environment Marketing will likely increase profits substantially owing to soaring pulp market conditions. The key factor for the time being will be the progress in price increase of major products in Japan. Where price revisions the Company indicates now are materialized, it can ensure certain profitability in case current raw material and fuel prices continue, and feasibility of performance recovery for FY2023 onward will increase.
- (4) Equity ratio has been improving, coming to 41.0% as at the end of the third quarter of FY2022 from 39.7% a year earlier. In recent years, cash flow level has risen and equity capital is being accumulated consistently. Under new medium-term management plan (FY2022 - FY2024), a cumulative investment of 550 billion yen (investments for maintenance / upgrading and strategic investments) for three years is planned, assuming it will be allocated to growth investments for promising areas and matters addressing environment issues. Note that the fund requiring for these will likely be covered by cash flow from business activities and substantial change in the financial situation is not expected.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
