

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

ARUHI Corporation (security code: 7198)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating:	A
Outlook:	Stable
Subordinated Loan:	BBB+
CP:	J-1

Rationale

- (1) ARUHI Corporation (the “Company”) is a mortgage bank whose main product is Flat 35 loans of the Japan Housing Finance Agency (“JHF”). In November 2022, the Company became a consolidated subsidiary of SBI Holdings, Inc. The long-term issuer rating reflects its high market position and competitiveness in housing loans, relatively stable earning capacity, and sufficient capital adequacy in light of risks, among others. In addition, based on the degree of control/involvement of SBI Group (“SBIG”) and its managerial importance, JCR believes that a notch below of SBIG’s group creditworthiness “A” equivalent should be the floor for the Company’s long-term issuer rating.
- (2) The Company’s market position and competitiveness in housing loans are high. It has the industry’s largest market share in terms of the number of Flat 35 loan executions. Its strengths lie in its nationwide network of sales offices through franchising (“FC”), its wide-ranging product lineup offered at the industry’s lowest-level interest rates, and the speed of loan executions by using IT. Recent years, however, the Flat 35 loan market has been sluggish against the backdrop of soaring housing prices and rising long-term interest rates, and the number of loan executions by the Company has also been on a downtrend. In such circumstances, the Company is working to expand the range of its variable-rate products and enhancing its sales channels through SBIG and external collaboration. Going forward, the Company plans to launch variable-rate products jointly developed with SBI Shinsei Bank, Limited, and JCR will be paying attention to whether this will lead to an increase in the number of loan executions.
- (3) Its earning capacity is relatively stable. Although affected by the slump in the Flat 35 loan market, it has secured solid profits, supported by the steady accumulation of recurring revenues, such as those from the loan servicing business, and its expense structure restraining fixed costs through FC. JCR will be observing whether the Company can diversify revenue sources through SBIG and external business partnership, and further expand its recurring revenues.
- (4) Its credit risk associated with bonds is small. Flat 35 loans (purchase type) are off-balance sheet through the transfer of receivables to JHF at the same time of the housing loan execution. Flat 35 loans (guarantee type) are insured with specified housing loan insurance by JHF. Other products are also guaranteed to reduce risks. The interest rate risk is limited, as the period until securitization of the Flat 35 loans (guarantee type) is short.
- (5) The capital adequacy is at a sufficient level in light of risks. Through profit accumulation and subordinated loan financing, the substantial capital level is increasing year by year. Risks, such as credit risk and interest rate risk, are small. The amount of goodwill arising from changes in major shareholders in the past is relatively large, but given the solid earnings, there seems to be little concern that the goodwill will become impaired. Liquidity is secured. Thanks to business relationships with a variety of financial institutions, its indirect funding base is stable. There are no problems with the securitization of Flat 35 loans (guarantee type) and so forth.
- (6) JCR sees that SBIG’s degree of control/involvement is reasonably strong. The Company lists its shares and has a certain level of managerial independence, while SBIG holds approximately 54% of its voting rights and dispatches several directors. As shown by the fact that the Company plans to change its trade name to the one including the name of SBI, the Company is becoming increasingly integrated with SBIG. Also, JCR sees that the Company’s managerial importance of SBIG is high. As SBIG is focusing on the banking and non-banking sectors, and placing more weight on debt businesses such as personal lending, the Company is at a strategically/functionally important position to strengthen the housing loan sector.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
