

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

TAKARA BIO INC. (security code: 4974)

<Outlook Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A+

Outlook: from Stable to Negative

Rationale

- (1) TAKARA BIO INC. (the "Company") is a biotechnology-related R&D-oriented company. It is a consolidated subsidiary of TAKARA HOLDINGS INC. having a 60.9% stake. It employs genetic and cellular engineering technologies as fundamental technologies. Having academic institutions, testing and pharmaceutical companies and others as customers, the Company manufactures and sells the reagents for genetic engineering research; sells scientific instruments; and engages in other businesses including contract business (CDMO business) for products related to regenerative medicine and genetic analysis/testing. In January 2025, it made a US-based Curio Bioscience, which engages in spatial analysis agents, a subsidiary. JCR places emphasize on the Company's standalone creditworthiness since it is a listed company with a certain degree of independence from the group. Despite of the fact, JCR also considers the entire creditworthiness of the group in the rating decision for the Company given the integrity in the business perspective and growth strategies.
- (2) Although the performance is recovering after the lowest reported for the fiscal year ended March 2024 (FY2023), the speed remains moderate. Due to prolongation of the sluggish life sciences market worldwide, there is a growing possibility of delay in recovering to the profit level JCR expected. There have been no changes to the Company's business foundation such as presence for genetic engineering research reagents in Japan, Europe and the U.S. and superiority in the CDMO business in Japan, but the business environment in China, where the Company demonstrates high competitiveness, has deteriorated. Given the extremely good financial structure, JCR has affirmed the rating on the Company, but changed the rating outlook from Stable to Negative. Going forward, JCR will check the trends in business environment and performance recovery status.
- (3) For the fiscal year ending March 2025 (FY2024), the Company projects a net sales of 48.9 billion yen and an operating income of 5 billion yen, up 12.4% and up 66.5% from the previous fiscal year respectively. An increase in sales of general-purpose reagents and an increase in contracts for products related to regenerative medicine are expected to contribute to the profits. For FY2025 and beyond, in addition to expansion of the CDMO and genetic medicine markets, the life sciences market is expected to recover compared to FY2024. However, structural changes can also be observed in the field of genetic engineering research reagents, such as intensified price competition caused by Chinese companies gaining power; therefore, the negative impact may also become stronger for the performance perspective.
- (4) Equity capital and the ratio were 115.8 billion yen and 92.4% as at the end of the second quarter of FY2024 respectively. The Company has ample liquidity on hand and is virtually debt-free having cash and deposit of 39.9 billion yen. Subsequently, the Company made Curio Bioscience a subsidiary (acquisition price: 6.3 billion yen) but the impact on the financial structure is considered to be limited. Toward 2027, it is making progress in constructing the third building of the center for gene and cell processing, but robust financial foundation can probably be maintained also considering subsidies from the government and other factors.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7
