

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Juroku Financial Group, Inc. (security code: 7380)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A+
Outlook: Stable

The Juroku Bank, Ltd. (security code: -)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A+
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) Juroku Financial Group, Inc. ("Juroku FG") is a regional financial group, which has the core of The Juroku Bank, Ltd. ("Juroku Bank"), Juroku Lease Co., Ltd., Juroku Card Co., Ltd., Juroku Tokai Tokyo Securities Co., Ltd. and others under the umbrella of holding company. Juroku Bank is the leading bank in Gifu Prefecture with a fund volume of slightly more than 6 trillion yen. It also actively carries out sales activities in Aichi Prefecture. JCR determines creditworthiness of Juroku FG is equivalent to A+ in light of the robust business base, good loan asset quality, capital level and others. Both of the group's earnings capacity and capital level have been improving with a relatively fast pace, and JCR pays attention to subsequent movements. JCR determines the issuer rating on Juroku Bank, which accounts for vast majority of the group's assets and earnings, at the same level of the group's creditworthiness. JCR has not reflect a holding company's structurally subordinated nature in the rating on the holding company since there have been no particular concerns over the cash flow balance and double leverage ratio.
- (2) Juroku Bank's stand-alone core net business income (excluding gains and losses on cancellation of investment trusts, etc.) increased for four fiscal years in a row for the fiscal year ended March 2022 (FY2021) backed by a substantial reduction in expenses, enhanced fee business and others. ROA (based on core net business income) is in the middle of 0.3% range, which is a favorable level against the rating. The scope of business of the group companies has been consistently expanding, contributing to enhancement of earnings capacity of the holding company on the basis of consolidation. In response to the expectation of increasing foreign current procurement costs in the future, Juroku Bank has been taking measures including reducing the balance of foreign securities in a flexible manner. JCR views core net business income will likely be steady supported by the continuing efforts of expense reductions.
- (3) As at the end of June 2022, the non-performing loans ratio under the Financial Reconstruction Act was low, standing at 1.5% (no partial direct write-offs were implemented) and loans in the portfolio have also been well diversified into small claims. Juroku Bank has been making provisions conservatively for potentially bankrupt borrowers since the past, and has newly applied the conservative standards to some credits extended to borrowers requiring caution in the wake of COVID crisis. Although attention needs to be paid to the impacts of soaring raw material prices, etc. on the borrowers, JCR views the credit costs will remain within the range that can be comfortably absorbed by the core net business income. Juroku Bank's interest rate risk exposure to the yen-denominated bonds held is relatively large against the capital, while that to foreign securities has been curbed. Valuation gains and losses on bonds, etc. deteriorated with a reason of rising market interest rates; however, it managed to ensure valuation gains (unrealized) for overall available-for-sale securities at the end of June 2022 due to a large amount of unrealized gains on shareholdings.
- (4) As at the end of March 2022, the adjusted consolidated core capital ratio after deducting general allowance for bad debts, etc. was slightly more than 10%, which is a good level for regional financial institutions falling in A range. JCR views that the core capital ratio will likely improve continuously since it has been controlling risk-weighted assets and the retained earnings will likely be accumulated backed by the solid performance.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

Consequently, the credit rating determined on the grounds of such information does not constitute, explicitly or implicitly, any representation or warrant of JCR on the information itself or any consequences of its use in terms of accuracy, relevance, timeliness, wholeness, market value, or usefulness for any specific purposes.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's parent company or subsidiary, guarantor or other provider of credit enhancement, or the government of the issuer's business domicile, or other related parties' own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer, and the change thereby makes its business bases, financial grounds and/ or liquidity positions improve or deteriorate, and/ or making the effectiveness of guarantee and other credit enhancement improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.

G) Various Events
