

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

NIDEC CORPORATION (security code: 6594)

<Credit Monitor Continuation> <Rating Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: from #AA/Negative to #A+/Negative

Bonds: from #AA/Negative to #A+/Negative

Rationale

- (1) NIDEC CORPORATION (the “Company”) released on September 30 its securities report and financial statements summary for the fiscal year ended March 2026 (FY2025). With respect to the consolidated financial statements, the audit corporation did not express an audit opinion, on the grounds that it was unable to obtain sufficient and appropriate audit evidence to provide a basis for the audit opinion. Specifically, it cited as the basis for the disclaimer of opinion that it was unable to determine the completeness of the restatement because some of remedial personnel actions had not been completed and that it was also unable to obtain sufficient and appropriate audit evidence regarding the amount and period allocation of impairment losses nor the appropriateness and completeness of the comparative information. As such, it issued a disclaimer of opinion on the consolidated financial statements for two years in a row from FY2024.
- (2) For FY2025, the Company recorded impairment losses of 632.1 billion yen on non-financial assets including goodwill and loss attributable to owners of the parent of 564.6 billion yen. Of the impairment losses, appliance, commercial and industrial products accounted for 335.1 billion yen, and automotive products 231.0 billion yen, as major factors. The Company also recorded provisions for loss of contract of 22.4 billion yen, liabilities related to the settlement of claims from suppliers of 4.2 billion yen and special investigations and related expenses of 30.5 billion yen. As a result, equity attributable to owners of the parent as of the end of FY2025 plunged from 1,717.1 billion yen (before restatement) a year before to 794.1 billion yen; accordingly, its ratio dropped from 51.8% to 25.6%. On a separate note, even though the Company breached the financial covenants set forth in the commitment line agreements with its main creditor banks (total borrowing limit: 600 billion yen), it has obtained waivers from these banks of their rights to demand immediate repayment, as no amounts had been drawn.
- (3) When placing the ratings on the Company under Credit Monitor in March, JCR assumed that the Company would record a loss of about 400 billion yen due to the negative impact of frauds and errors on net assets, impairment losses arising from the revisions, etc. to the previous year’s profits/losses and other factors. However, actual impacts on finances including impairment losses recorded in FY2025 far exceeded JCR’s assumptions, resulting in a substantial decline in financial flexibility. The successive revelations of improper accounting practices and quality fraud have also continued to raise concerns over internal control deficiencies and undermine the reliability of financial reporting. Based on the above, JCR has downgraded the ratings by two notches and continues Credit Monitor with a Negative direction.
- (4) The substantial net loss recorded in FY2025 was primarily attributable to impairment losses, and JCR does not view that the Company’s underlying cash flow generation capacity has deteriorated significantly. For FY2026, the Company expects to return to profitability, with operating profit of 200 billion yen and profit attributable to owners of the parent of 100 billion yen. Yet, there remains uncertainty regarding financial figures. JCR will pay attention, for the time being, to the audit opinion on the FY2025 securities report to be resubmitted by October 28 and trends in future earnings including the possibility of additional losses. JCR will also monitor progress in the improvement of governance and internal controls under the new management structure, as well as the impact of the revision of the business portfolio and structural reforms on profits/losses, cash flows and financial structure, and reflect its views in the ratings as appropriate.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

11 Explanation or Measure of the Potential Volatility of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(K) of Rule 17g-7

A) Business Bases

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is improvement or deterioration of the issuer's business bases, since its revenue, etc. may improve or deteriorate by the change in its business management policies, clients' preferences, competitive situation, or a technological innovation. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's parent company or subsidiary, guarantor or other provider of credit enhancement, or the government of the issuer's business domicile, or other related parties' own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer, and the change thereby makes its business bases, financial grounds and/ or liquidity positions improve or deteriorate, and/ or making the effectiveness of guarantee and other credit enhancement improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.

G) Various Events

The credit rating is subject to alteration on occurrence of various events, such as change in the issuer's major shareholders, M&A and other organizational change, accident, violation of the law, litigation, legal/ regulatory change, natural disaster, etc., which are unforeseeable at the time when the credit rating is determined, causing a significant change on the issuer's business bases, financial grounds, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but more often than not as much as a few notches.

Information on the Sensitivity of the Credit Rating to Assumptions Made as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(M) of Rule 17g-7

A) Business Bases

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's financial grounds and asset quality. possibly as much as a few notches if the development is rapid in improvement or deterioration of the issuer's financial grounds and/ or asset quality on some drastic change in its business bases.

C) Liquidity Risks

The change could be as much as a few notches if the issuer's financial structure differs so much and thereby the balance between debts shifted so greatly. Rating change is also possible in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turns out to be inaccurate. The change of the credit rating is assumed to be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

E) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the prospects of general economy and markets.
