

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

The Tokyo Star Bank, Limited (security code: -)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) The Tokyo Star Bank, Limited (“TSB”) is a regional bank II with a fund volume of approximately 2 trillion yen. TSB is a wholly owned subsidiary of CTBC Bank Co., Ltd., which is the core bank of CTBC, a leading Taiwanese financial group. Taking into account CTBC’s degree of involvement and its management importance from CTBC’s perspective, TSB’s issuer rating is assessed based on CTBC’s group creditworthiness.
- (2) There is a high probability of support from CTBC, in JCR’s view. CTBC holds 100% of TSB’s voting rights and dispatches several directors to TSB. In addition, TSB has a high level of integration with CTBC in terms of risk management and fundraising, and therefore CTBC is considered to have a high degree of involvement in TSB. Moreover, as CTBC builds a network to provide global services to its Taiwanese customers, TSB, which handles the Japanese market, occupies a strategically and functionally important position. Therefore, JCR sees that TSB is of relatively high managerial importance to CTBC.
- (3) Unlike typical regional banks, TSB does not have any particular regions with a high share of deposits and loans, but it has built a unique position through distinctive products and services. In corporate operations, it has strengths in structured finance (“SF”) related to real estate, hotel, and non-bank sectors. In retail operations, TSB seeks to differentiate itself through distinctive loan products such as reverse mortgages and preferential interest rates on regular deposits based on usage. JCR will be watching to see whether TSB’s business base will expand through selective strengthening of SF and the expansion of cross-border business through collaboration with CTBC.
- (4) Core earning capacity has continued to recover since hitting bottom in the fiscal year ended March 2021 (FY2020). The recovery in profits is contributed by the restructuring of the lending portfolio, an increase in foreign currency-denominated bonds with wide spreads, a recovery in foreign exchange derivative profits, and cost reductions achieved by reviewing the branch structure, among others. Its ROA (based on consolidated substantial net business income) for the first half of FY2024 was around 0.6%, a relatively high level. Meanwhile, JCR sees that TSB’s earnings are more volatile than those of other regional financial institutions.
- (5) Asset quality is sound. The consolidated non-performing loans ratio under the Financial Reconstruction Act as of the end of September 2024 was in the mid-1% range, which is a reasonable level. Although SF accounts for a large proportion of the total credit balance and asset quality is vulnerable to external factors, TSB has been reducing risk compared to the past by reviewing its loan portfolio in recent years. JCR believes that credit costs can be absorbed by core profits. The amount of risk involved in securities management is being constrained.
- (6) Capital adequacy is good. The adjusted consolidated core capital ratio as of the end of September 2024 was in the 11% range, which is high among regional banks in the A rating category. While there is a possibility that risk-weighted assets may expand in the future as loans increase, the current capital level will likely be maintained through the accumulation of internal reserves.

- Please see the news release. If the credit rating is a private rating, please see the report for private rating.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
