

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

OBAYASHI CORPORATION (security code: 1802)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: AA-
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) OBAYASHI CORPORATION (the "Company") is a general construction company that has been in business for more than 130 years. It is one of the five major construction companies in Japan. The Company has an extensive construction track record in Japan and has built a solid business foundation. With Domestic Construction business as its core business, the Company operates its business in five areas: Overseas Construction Business, Real Estate Development Business, Green Energy Business, and New Businesses Initiatives. The Company's overseas operations are centered on North America and Asia. Overseas sales accounted for 20.3% of the consolidated net sales (fiscal year ended March 2022 (FY2021), which is relatively high among major companies in the industry.
- (2) Profits have been maintained at a certain level. For the time being, the impact of several large-scale construction projects for which a provision for construction losses was recorded in FY2021 remains, but profits are expected to gradually recover as the above-mentioned projects are delivered. In addition, with its equity ratio hovering around 40%, the Company has a favorable financial structure. Its equity capital is approaching 1 trillion yen and is large enough to serve as a risk buffer. Under the medium-term business plan, it plans to strengthen investment in development projects, but it plans to finance this investment through cash flow and the sale of strategic shareholdings. The Company can maintain a favorable financial structure. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the rating with Stable outlook.
- (3) The Company plans an operating income of 86 billion yen (up 109.5% year-on-year) for FY2022, the first increase in two fiscal years. In addition to elimination of the impact of the large provision for construction losses recorded in the previous fiscal year, construction work is expected to progress generally smoothly both in Japan and overseas. Its profits will gradually recover in FY2023 and beyond. Although there will be some impact from low-profit and unprofitable construction projects that were awarded during a period when the competitive environment was severe, the Company can benefit from negotiations with customers to pass on prices, value engineering proposals, and strengthened pre-order screening.
- (4) The equity ratio as of the end of the third quarter of FY2022 was 38.5% (39.5% as of the end of FY2021), a healthy level. For the time being, net interest-bearing debt is expected to increase due to an increase in advances associated with the increase in the size of construction projects, but as capital recovery progresses in the future, net interest-bearing debt can decrease. The majority of customers for large-scale construction projects are large and creditworthy companies and government agencies, so credit risk is low.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease.
