Long-term Issuer Rating: from A to A+
Outlook: from Positive to Stable

INTEC INC. (security code: -)

<Rating Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: from A to A+
Outlook: from Positive to Stable

Rationale

- (1) TIS Inc. (the “Company”) is the operating holding company of the TIS INTEC Group (the “Group”). The Group boasts top-class sales in Japan’s information system industry and has a customer base covering diverse industries including financial, manufacturing, distribution and energy, as well as the public sector, with the number of customers reaching approximately 15,000 companies in Japan. In particular, it has a large market share and rich development track record in the payment settlement business and thus has potential to capture numerous business opportunities arising from cashless transactions. INTEC INC. (“INTEC”) is the Company’s wholly owned subsidiary, which accounts for approximately 20% of consolidated net sales. With strengths in CRM system for regional banks and public domains, it widely offers IT services through regional bases, customers’ sites, etc. It assumes the role of the Group’s core operating company. Given the two companies’ management unity, INTEC’s rating is the same as the Company’s.
- (2) The level and stability of cash flows have improved thanks to continuous growth over the long term. Digital transformation trends remain unchanged, and demand for IT investment is tending to expand. The Group takes advantage of its own extensive knowledge of the industry and high-level development capabilities to absorb demand in growth areas like payment settlement, thereby expanding the volume of transactions with major customers. It is also pressing ahead with structural transformation with an eye on the future, and thus sales growth and profitability improvement will probably continue going forward, too. Moreover, a high awareness of financial discipline suggests that financial soundness is not likely to be impaired. Based on the above, JCR upgraded the ratings on the Company and INTEC by one notch and changed the outlook to Stable.
- (3) Structural transformation is making steady progress; in particular, relationships with key customers have been strengthened. JCR predicts that positive outcomes will be gradually realized going forward, too. In the digital transformation business, the Company is focusing on promoting co-creation with stakeholders and strengthening its consulting function, and thus transactions with key customers are expected to expand. In the service business, the Company is creating services that contribute to solving social issues; in particular, credit SaaS could become a growth driver. While it needs to hold its own assets, it can build a business foundation that is hardly affected by order trends and human resources. In the global business, it is pressing ahead with M&As and capital/business alliances, mainly in the ASEAN region. It is expanding the scale of its operations while controlling risks by increasing investment ratio in phases. Although this segment’s contribution to overall performance is marginal for the time being, future growth through synergy creation is expected.
- (4) The Company expects a 7.8% year-on-year growth in operating income in FY2022 to 59 billion yen, up for twelve years running. Revenue growth and profitability improvement will likely help absorb upfront investments, etc. JCR assumes that business growth will continue with no major changes in these trends into FY2023 and beyond. Meanwhile, the financial structure is favorable, as indicated by equity ratio standing at 63.2% as of September 30, 2022. The Company can expect stable cash flow generation and intends to use its own funds to make aggressive growth investments while increasing shareholder returns at the same time. Therefore, the current level of a financial structure will probably be maintained into the future.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.

G) Various Events

The credit rating is subject to alteration on occurrence of various events, such as change in the issuer's major shareholders, M&A and other organizational change, accident, violation of the law, litigation, legal/ regulatory change, natural disaster, etc., which are unforeseeable at the time when the credit rating is determined, causing a significant change on the issuer's business bases, financial grounds, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but more often than not as much as a few notches.

Information on the Sensitivity of the Credit Rating to Assumptions Made as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(M) of Rule 17g-7

A) Business Bases

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's business bases and powers of earning or cash flow generation, etc. The resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch, as JCR speculates, but possibly as much as a few notches if the development is rapid in improvement or deterioration of the issuer's business bases on some drastic change in the operational environments, etc.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's financial grounds and asset quality. The resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch, as JCR speculates, but possibly as much as a few notches if the development is rapid in improvement or deterioration of the issuer's financial grounds and/ or asset quality on some drastic change in its business bases.

C) Liquidity Risks

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's liquidity positions. The resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch, as JCR speculates, but possibly as much as a few notches if the development is rapid in improvement or deterioration of the issuer's liquidity positions on some drastic change in its financial management policy or relations with fund procurement sources, etc.

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's parent company or subsidiaries, guarantor or other providers of credit enhancement, the government of the issuer's business domicile or other related parties' status and stance of support/ assistance for the issuer. The resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch, as JCR speculates, but possibly as much as a few notches if there is a major change on the part of related parties, such as replacement, disappearance, some drastic improvement/ deterioration of financial grounds/ balances, etc.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the order of seniority in repayment of interests and principal. JCR assumes the resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch. The change could be as much as a few notches if the issuer's financial structure differs so much and thereby the balance between debts shifted so greatly. Rating change is also possible in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turns out to be inaccurate. The change of the credit rating is assumed to be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.
