

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Hirose Tusyo Inc. (security code: 7185)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: BBB
Outlook: Stable
Short-term Issuer Rating: J-2

Rationale

- (1) Hirose Tusyo Inc. (the “Company”) is a foreign exchange (FX) margin trading broker established in Osaka City in 2004 and listed on the Standard Market. It primarily offers the LION FX service for online FX trading. It also provides contract for difference (CFD) trading services and has subsidiaries in such countries as the U.K. and Malaysia. Factors supporting the long-term issuer rating include a certain level of the customer base, stable profit level compared to the peers, certain capacity to absorb losses with capital and appropriate risk management. On the other hand, factors like vulnerability to market conditions as a nature of the industry, high earnings volatility on the back of the harsh competition environment and possibility of fluctuations in the market share within the industry are reflected as rating constraints common to the FX industry.
- (2) Over-the-counter FX trading has been booming in recent years, contributing positively to FX brokers' earnings. Fluctuations in exchange rates have become greater since 2022 due to widening interest rate differentials between Japan and other countries, changes in political and financial situations and so forth, and market trading volumes have remained high. Because of wider interest rate differentials, swap point income is also at a high level. However, trading volume may shrink, depending on exchange rate fluctuations. Given strong downward pressure on profit margins per trading currency unit due to fierce competition, etc., it still remains difficult for the Company to steadily secure earnings.
- (3) The Company has a certain level of the customer base, albeit being an independent broker, and ranks high in the industry in terms of FX trading volume. The number of accounts, margin deposit balance and trading volume are trending upward. The Company has increased regular customers by strictly adopting a customer-first approach, including quickly reflecting the customers' requests in its services. Its earnings capacity is stable compared to the peers'. The strong customer base centered on regular customers and ability to reasonably secure trading in currency pairs with relatively large spreads, such as the pound and Australian dollar, along with other factors including the efforts to streamline and optimize cover/marry transactions and flexible control of costs, help maintain a certain level of profits.
- (4) The Company is managing risks appropriately. It contains foreign exchange risk through cover transactions based on customer orders, strict management of position limits, etc.; and customer credit risk by, for instance, adopting mandatory stop-loss procedures. It did not incur any significant loan losses even during the periods of drastic market fluctuations in the past. It is also appropriately managing operational risk associated with trading systems.
- (5) There are no particular concerns about capital adequacy. Consolidated shareholders' equity as of the end of December 2025 was reasonably sufficient 20.5 billion yen. Capital adequacy ratio as of the same date stood decent at 827%, giving the Company a larger capital buffer against risks than the peers. In terms of liquidity, margin deposits to counterparties are covered by cash, deposits and letters of guarantee from the Company's banks. Sufficient liquidity is secured for cover transactions, including the establishment of overdraft facility accounts.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

A) Business Bases

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is improvement or deterioration of the issuer's business bases, since its revenue, etc. may improve or deteriorate by the change in its business management policies, clients' preferences, competitive situation, or a technological innovation. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.

G) Various Events

The credit rating is subject to alteration on occurrence of various events, such as change in the issuer's major shareholders, M&A and other organizational change, accident, violation of the law, litigation, legal/ regulatory change, natural disaster, etc., which are unforeseeable at the time when the credit rating is determined, causing a significant change on the issuer's business bases, financial grounds, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but more often than not as much as a few notches.
