

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

SEIREN CO., LTD. (security code: 3569)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) SEIREN CO., LTD. (the “Company”) is a major company engaging in the planning, manufacturing and sales of textile products. In addition to the Automotive Interior, the Company operates a wide variety of businesses such as the High Fashion and the Electronics. QUOLE synthetic leather, the core product of the Company’s mainstay automotive sheet materials, has strengths in durability, functionality, design, etc. The Company plans to expand its global market share of synthetic sheet materials, especially in overseas markets such as Europe, where environmental awareness is high. The construction of a new plant in Hungary was completed in November 2022, and mass production is scheduled to begin in February 2023. In addition, the Company is focusing on nurturing and expanding new businesses such as small satellites and semiconductor-related products in order to strengthen its business base.
- (2) The business performance is solid. Sales of QUOLE are growing mainly overseas, and demand for apparel and other products, which deteriorated due to the COVID-19 pandemic, is on a recovery trend. Raw materials prices and energy costs are rising, but the Company is passing them on to sales prices. Although the external environment is uncertain, the Company is likely to secure stable profits for the foreseeable future, given that its earnings sources are diversified, and there are no changes in the market position, competitiveness, a favorable customer base of its mainstay products, etc. The financial structure is favorable. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the rating on the Company with Stable outlook.
- (3) Its operating income for the fiscal year ending March 2023 (FY2022) is projected to be 12.3 billion yen (up 12.8% from a year earlier), marking the second consecutive year of record profits. Sales volume of QUOLE is expanding in Asia and other regions, which is expected to drive performance. Sales of sports apparel and fashion apparel products are also recovering partly due to the expansion of the outdoor market and increased opportunities to go outside. Going forward, the Company will likely to expand sales of synthetic seat materials, mainly in Europe, as a result of the operation of its plant in Hungary, and JCR will confirm the Company’s business performance.
- (4) The equity ratio at the end of the second quarter of FY2022 was 62.4% (58.2% at the end of FY2021), maintaining a good level. In addition, the Company is substantially debt-free, with liquidity on hand exceeding interest-bearing debt. Although capital investment has been on an upward trend in recent years partly with the establishment of a production base in Hungary, this has been absorbed by operating cash flow. In addition, capital expenditures are expected to peak out in FY2023 and beyond. Therefore, free cash flow is expected to remain positive, and there is little concern that the Company’s sound financial base will be impaired.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease.
