Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd.

25-D-1421

January 20, 2026

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Premium Group Co., Ltd. (security code: 7199)

<Assignment>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A-
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) Premium Group Co., Ltd. (the "Group") is a pure holding company whose core operating company is Premium Co., Ltd. The Group provides a comprehensive range of automobile-related services, including finance, failure warranty, and Automobile Mobility Service (AMS) businesses. The Group's creditworthiness reflects its certain level of market position and competitiveness, stable earning capacity, and relatively strong capital adequacy. JCR assesses its credit rating as equivalent to "A-." Given the strong cohesiveness within the Group, the long-term issuer rating is assessed to be equivalent to the Group's creditworthiness.
- (2) The auto credit business has a certain level of market position and competitiveness. The Group's strengths lie in its strong nationwide network of small and mid-sized automobile dealers and service shops, as well as in its ability to provide a wide range of automobile-related services. In the finance business, the market share based on credit transaction volume has been steadily increasing. In the failure warranty business, supported by its high market share as the top-ranked provider of third-party warranties, it has increased its transaction volume and steadily accumulated operating assets. In the AMS business, revenues from automobile wholesale and software sales have been expanding. Furthermore, it is deepening the relationships with member shops by enrolling automobile dealers as members and operating the Car Premium Club, which provides benefits such as sales support. JCR will monitor whether the Group can sustainably expand its operating assets and its share of the auto credit market while expanding its customer base through initiatives such as promoting cross selling.
- (3) The Group's earning capacity is commensurate with its rating. In the finance business, the Group generates stable revenue from the operating assets it has steadily accumulated. The growth of the failure warranty business and the AMS business is contributing to the diversification of revenue sources. In addition to business expansion, the streamlining of back-office operations through DX initiatives has contributed to an increase in pretax profit. The Group maintains sufficient basic earnings measured against credit costs and procurement costs (pretax profit before deductions of credit costs and others), and its profitability as measured by ROA remains at a relatively sound level. JCR expects the Group to raise its profit level through the expansion of the Car Premium Club and an increase in transaction volume per member shop.
- (4) The quality of the assets is sound. Credit operations are being conducted appropriately, with advancements being made in initial credit screening as well as in debt management and collection. The Group's main operating assets consist of small, well-diversified auto credit receivables, and the associated credit risk is limited. The delinquency ratio has increased; however, JCR views the rise as temporary due to system failures, and expect it to gradually decline as the affected receivables return to normal repayment status. In addition, auto credit receivables are insured by trade credit insurance, enabling the Group to hedge credit risk by paying insurance premiums.
- (5) Capital adequacy is commensurate with the A range. Although the scale of equity capital is not large, JCR adjusted capital adequacy ratio and its capital buffer relative to risk remain at sound levels. Liquidity is also well secured. Most auto credit receivables are structured under partnership loan schemes, which help minimize the funding burden. A temporary increase in operating funds is covered mainly through borrowings from main banks.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.
