

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

SBI Sumishin Net Bank, Ltd. (security code: 7163)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) SBI Sumishin Net Bank, Ltd. (the "Bank") is a major Internet bank with a fund volume of a bit over 9 trillion yen and an equity-method affiliate of Sumitomo Mitsui Trust Bank, Limited and SBI Holdings, Inc. (collectively, the "Two Companies"). It has close relations with the Two Companies as a partner, as shown by capital and business ties and the use of the latter's brand names in its corporate name, and it appears that the Two Companies will possibly financially support the Bank when the need arises in the future. However, concluding that the Bank has been conducting business more as an independent entity since its listing in March 2023, JCR does not reflect the aforementioned possibility of financial support in the current rating. The rating rather reflects the Bank's standalone creditworthiness evidenced by the sold business base, reasonable level of earnings capacity, good asset quality and so forth. Meanwhile, given that the actual capital level is low relative to the rating, JCR will keep a close eye on improvement efforts.
- (2) Business base is solid. The size of deposits and loans is one of the largest among Internet banks and comparable to that of higher-ranking regional banks. As regards the core housing loan business, the Bank boasts the highest execution volume among domestic banks. It has a system whereby it can constantly absorb demand for housing loans even in the midst of fierce competition, thanks to competitive marketability, partnerships with major real estate companies and bank agents and so forth. It intends to keep striving to increase its share in the mortgage market going forward, too, by taking such measures as gaining new partners. It is also realizing positive results in other business areas, including an increase in the number of partners and earnings growth in the BaaS business.
- (3) The Bank's earnings capacity is fairly high for a bank in JCR's A rating category. Although the yield on total investments is low because assets are mostly low-yield housing loans, this is compensated for by the low personnel expenses, relatively high fee income, etc. JCR will closely watch whether the Bank can further increase the earnings capacity and diversify earnings sources with growth in the market share for housing loans, expansion of the BaaS business and so forth.
- (4) Asset quality is good. Housing loans account for the majority of loans, and credit risk is kept low, as indicated by low default rates, coverage by collateral and diversification into small loans. Credit costs have been extremely low, and JCR considers that this trend is most likely to continue into the future. Securities portfolio consists mostly of highly rated bonds and has low credit risk.
- (5) Capital adequacy is low relative to the rating. Even though risks associated with loan assets have been contained, there is much room for improving consolidated core capital ratio based on the full application of Basel III finalization and adjusted for unrealized losses on available-for-sale securities, etc. Looking ahead, as the execution volume of housing loans is expected to remain high, adding to the loan balance, JCR will closely monitor trends in risk asset control, etc.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

A) Business Bases

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is improvement or deterioration of the issuer's business bases, since its revenue, etc. may improve or deteriorate by the change in its business management policies, clients' preferences, competitive situation, or a technological innovation. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease.
