

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Tokyo Kiraboshi Financial Group, Inc. (security code: 7173)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A-
Outlook: Stable

Kiraboshi Bank, Ltd. (security code: -)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A-
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) Tokyo Kiraboshi Financial Group is a regional financial group having Kiraboshi Bank, Ltd. (the "Bank"), UI Bank Co., Ltd. ("UI Bank") and others under the umbrella of the holding company. The Bank is a regional bank headquartered in Tokyo with a fund volume of 5.4 trillion yen including UI Bank, which is a digital bank. The group operates a wide range of businesses through the number of subsidiaries, including leasing, securities, cards, guarantee, trusts, collection services, fund structuring, consulting and fintech services.
- (2) As for the Bank, the group's core subsidiary, it ensures a high earnings capacity through steady lending operations, reductions in expenses, and others. On the other hands, cautious evaluation is required for the fact that it actively takes risks in investments and loans. Raising the core capital level is also an issue to be addressed. Therefore, JCR sees creditworthiness of the group is equivalent to "A-". The Bank's rating is equivalent to the creditworthiness of the group based on its core position in the group and other factors. As for the holding company, JCR has not reflected the structurally subordinated nature in the rating given that the double leverage ratio has increased but the level is held down within a certain range, the future financial management policy and others.
- (3) For the first nine months of the fiscal year ended March 2023 (FY2022), the Bank's core net business income increased 10.9 billion yen (57%) from a year earlier to 30 billion yen. Where special factors, such as dividends of subsidiaries and gains on cancellation of asset swap contracts, are excluded, the Bank's income still increased. The indicators measuring profitability such ROA (based on core net business income) and OHR (based on core gross business income) are favorable. In addition to increasing the balance of lending for corporate customers through promoting transactions to be customers' main financing bank and taking advantage of structured loans, the Bank is reducing expenses through consolidating bases and streamlining personnel. Presently, it is working on establishment of a new department specialized in handling real estate nonrecourse loans, fund wrap products, etc., and it also reallocating personnel to a controlling branch in a bloc. For FY2023 onward, expenses seem to increase due partly to wage increases and making investments in DX initiatives, and others; however, JCR views that it will be able to maintain high earnings capacity into the future through various sales enhancement measures.
- (4) As at the end of December 2022, the Bank's non-performing loans ratio under the Financial Reconstruction Act was high compared to the industry average, standing at 2.6%. The classification rate is also high as it has many loans falling under the borrowers requiring caution. It has a large number of loan assets with complex business risks in general, and also tend to easily become large amount of credits, such as LBO loans. Credit costs for the first nine months of FY2022 remained small, 9 billion yen, however, the trend should need to be watched in the future where also considering external environment surrounding the borrowers including rising raw material prices. In the market division, exposure to price fluctuation risk involved in investment trusts investing in stocks in and out of Japan and real estate is somewhat large. Liquidity risk and others should be watch as it is also increasing the investment amount to private equity funds through external investment companies and subsidiaries.

- (5) The Group's consolidated core capital ratio is gradually declining over the long term, standing at 8.1% as at the end of December 2022. Expansion of risk-weighted assets associated with an increase in loans, etc. is pushing down the capital level. JCR evaluates the equity content of part of preferred shares included in the core capital in a limited way, given the intention of repayment by the conversion date and others. The core capital ratio (adjusted for the valuation of preferred shares, etc.) is low among the regional banks rated A-. While accumulation of retained earnings is accelerating, risk-weighted assets are expanding at a relatively fast pace, on the other hand. Therefore, JCR will watch the capital level in the future.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.
