

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

TOSHIBA CORPORATION (security code: 6502)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: BBB+
Outlook: Stable
CP: J-2

Rationale

- (1) TOSHIBA CORPORATION (the "Company") is one of Japan's major general electronics manufacturers and operates wide-ranging business segments such as Energy Systems & Solutions, Infrastructure Systems & Solutions, Building Solutions, Retail & Printing Solutions, Electronic Devices & Storage Solutions (semiconductor, HDD and other businesses) and Digital Solutions. It has Kioxia Holdings Corporation ("Kioxia") as an equity-method affiliate with a 40.6% stake, which manufactures semiconductor memories whose market is highly volatile, and its net income/loss is affected by fluctuations in Kioxia's performance. Meanwhile, the Company announced on April 7, 2022 that it will establish a special committee to review strategic alternatives, including privatization.
- (2) Overall performance will likely remain firm. While some businesses have been affected by a market downturn, soaring costs of materials and transportation and so forth, the semiconductor business, which offers such products as power semiconductors that help achieve green transformation, is strong. As such, diverse earnings sources are working to the Company's advantage. On the financial front, despite active shareholder returns, the generally good financial structure is maintained without any major changes. Based on the above, JCR affirmed the ratings on the Company and retained the Stable outlook. On a separate note, JCR will continue closely watching the status of the Company's ongoing deliberations on strategic alternatives. While the above rating decision does not reflect JCR's predictions concerning said deliberations, strategic alternatives could supposedly have negative impact on the future rating decisions, depending on what their particulars will be.
- (3) The Company forecasts an operating income of 125 billion yen for the fiscal year ending March 2023 (FY2022), turning downward with a 21.4% year-on-year drop. The HDD business has been hard hit by the market downturn, and the efforts to raise selling prices have yet to fully absorb the impact of soaring costs of materials and transportation. Moreover, other factors like higher project costs in the Energy Systems & Solutions segment, goodwill impairment in Retail & Printing Solutions and provision for product guarantee in the HDD business are also expected to drag down operating income. However, these factors will have less impact in FY2023, which will likely help push up the income.
- (4) Shareholders' equity and its ratio as of September 30, 2022 were 1,245.8 billion yen and 34.2%, as opposed to 1,045.1 billion yen and 30.5% a year before. Despite the special dividend of 69.2 billion yen paid in August 2022, the Company has successfully expanded shareholders' equity and improved the ratio thanks partly to a turnaround in accumulated other comprehensive income/loss, including foreign currency translation adjustments. Net D/E ratio as of September 30, 2022 was 0.06x, remaining almost flat from 0.05x a year before. Even though active shareholder returns could be expected to continue into the future, the financial structure is hardly likely to deteriorate drastically as the Company strictly conducts the verification of the adequate capital level.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. - The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.

A) Business Bases

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is improvement or deterioration of the issuer's business bases, since its revenue, etc. may improve or deteriorate by the change in its business management policies, clients' preferences, competitive situation, or a technological innovation. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
