

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

JK Holdings Co., Ltd. (security code: 9896)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: BBB+
Outlook: Stable
CP: J-2

Rationale

- (1) JK Holdings Co., Ltd. (the "Company") is a pure holding company, with Japan Kenzai Co., Ltd., a housing materials trading company, as the group's core company. Given the group's strong unity, JCR incorporates the group's overall creditworthiness in the ratings on the Company. Having sales and logistics bases nationwide, the Company engages primarily in the wholesale business of plywood, secondary products of plywood, housing materials and the like. Thanks to its efforts to differentiate itself by offering a wide array of products and fine-tuned delivery services, among others, the Company has one of the largest market shares in the wood building materials wholesale industry. It also has been expanding the business bases by actively acquiring manufacturing/processing companies and retailers.
- (2) Although its business performance is being affected by the sluggish housing demand, JCR sees little concern that it will deteriorate significantly. In addition to maintaining/expanding the foundation of the building materials wholesale segment by enlarging its trade area and operating bases through business acquisitions, mainly of clients, the earning capacity of the retail segment is steadily increasing. Profitability in the manufacturing segment, including plywood, is unstable because of the market conditions, difficult procurement, etc., but JCR does not expect a sharp decline of profitability due to an increasing demand for domestic timber and value-added measures. With liquidity on hand and equity capital increasing, the financial structure is improving, albeit gradually. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the ratings on the Company with Stable outlook.
- (3) Operating income for the fiscal year ended March 2024 (FY2023) is expected to decrease to 8 billion yen (down 17.7% year on year) due to weak demand for building materials, but still maintaining a level above the one before the COVID-19 pandemic. Looking ahead, JCR believes that the Company will be able to basically maintain the current profit level, given a relatively solid demand for building materials in the non-housing sector and the Company's business foundation. Even after the Wood Shock subsided, the industry's profit margins remain high. In order to cope with future increases in logistics and labor costs, there appears to be a growing movement within the industry to maintain the increased margins, but JCR will monitor whether this will continue in the future. Also, from the perspective of environmental issues, there is growing momentum for the effective use of domestic timber and the construction of large structures. JCR is paying close attention to such rising demand for wood building materials and the Company's measures to capture this demand.
- (4) Its equity ratio at the end of the nine-month period ended December 2023 was 24.9%. However, each subsidiary has a policy of raising funds independently, resulting in a large amount of liquidity on hand and it serves as net cash. Going forward, the Company plans to actively expand its marketing channels and logistics bases through M&As. However, because its acquisitions, mainly of clients, are based on rigorous screening and many of their businesses are small, JCR sees that there is little possibility of incurring large extraordinary losses and impairing its equity capital.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds.
