

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Nippon Light Metal Holdings Company, Ltd. (security code: 5703)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A-
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) Nippon Light Metal Holdings Company, Ltd. (the "Company") is the pure holding company of the Nippon Light Metal Group (the "Group"). The Group has strength in remarkable product development capabilities, leveraging technologies and knowledge accumulated over the years and cooperation among subsidiaries with expertise in various fields. It has varied customer bases in the automotive, transportation, electronics, food and other industries. As the controlling company for the entire Group, the Company is responsible for management strategy planning, financing arrangements, etc. Given the Group's strong unity, its rating reflects the entire Group's creditworthiness. In 2023, the Company consolidated the Group's automotive components businesses and established Nikkeikin ALMO Co., Ltd. ("Nikkeikin ALMO"). Meanwhile, it has been decided to cancel the previously planned management integration between UACJ Foil Corporation and the Company's consolidated subsidiary Toyo Aluminium K.K. ("Toyo Aluminium") because conditions for its implementation were not met.
- (2) Earnings are starting to recover from the decline that followed the COVID crisis. Even though increases in the costs of raw materials, fuels, etc. have been putting downward pressure on overall results in recent years, profitability has improved thanks to the revision of selling prices. Demand has yet to fully recover, but medium-term growth in sales volume is expected for aluminum rolled and other products on the back of the electrification and weight reduction of automobiles, as well as to market expansion in semiconductor-related industries. Yet, Nikkeikin ALMO is suffering a loss because of sluggish sales in North America and China on the part of its customers, thus facing the challenge of improving its performance. On the financial front, a certain level of financial discipline is maintained, and JCR finds no particular concerns. Based on the above, JCR affirmed the rating on the Company with Stable outlook.
- (3) Ordinary profit is expected to rise for two years in a row in the fiscal year ending March 2025 (FY2024) to 20 billion yen, up 5.1% from the previous year, thanks mainly to growth in sales volume and progress in the revision of selling prices, which had been slow compared to cost increases. Overall performance will likely keep improving gradually into FY2025 and beyond. Demand from the automobile and semiconductor-related industries is expected to pick up. Moreover, profitability will probably improve as the effects of price revisions implemented during FY2024 in the truck body and other businesses will materialize.
- (4) Financial standing is sound, as indicated by equity ratio standing at 41.1% as of the end of the second quarter of FY2024. JCR assumes that the Company will keep making a certain level of investments aimed at strengthening the business base, but, given that cash flow generation capacity is improving, interest-bearing debt is not likely to increase remarkably. As profit accumulation is also expected, JCR assumes that the current level of a financial structure will be maintained into the future.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.
