

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Thai Union Group Public Company Limited (security code: -)

<Rating Change>

Foreign Currency Long-term Issuer Rating: from A- to A
Outlook: from Positive to Stable

<Assignment>

Local Currency Long-term Issuer Rating: A
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) Thai Union Group Public Company Limited is a major seafood processor established in Thailand in 1977. It has strengths in the production and sale of canned seafood. In particular, it is one of the world's leading companies in the sale of canned tuna. The Company's main business portfolio consists of ambient seafood, frozen and chilled seafood and pet food. It has been strengthening investment in high-value-added products and innovation in recent years in an effort to ensure new growth. The Company's rating is primarily supported by the growth potential of its seafood business, strong brand power and high earnings stability underpinned by its global production, procurement and marketing capabilities. In January 2024, the Company decided to pursue exit of minority investment in Red Lobster, an equity-method affiliate that had been underperforming, eliminating the risk of additional capital burden that JCR had been concerned about. Its frozen and chilled seafood business is rightsizing and is expected to contribute to profits from 2024 onward. Based on the Company's stabilized performance and increased cash flow generating capability, JCR has upgraded its rating by one notch to A with Stable outlook.
- (2) The Company's strength lies in the global diversification of its business areas. With its sales in Thailand accounting for only 11% of the total, it broadly deploys in overseas markets, particularly the United States and Europe which respectively account for around 41% and 30%. It owns food brands such as Chicken of the Sea in the U.S., Petit Navire in France, and John West in the EU. It has processing bases in 14 countries around the world including Thailand, the U.S., France, Seychelles, Poland and Viet Nam, boasting competitive global procurement capabilities. Its OEM contracts with other major food companies account for more than half its sales, providing another stable revenue source. Many of its diversified business partners are major global players in the food industry in the U.S., Europe and Japan.
- (3) In 2023, the Company posted a net loss, the first since its listing in 1994, after registering a conservative impairment loss associated with the decision to pursue exit of minority investment in Red Lobster. This decision and the resultant accounting procedures will decouple Red Lobster from the Company's results going forward. The Company saw operating income decline due mainly to one-time factors such as the higher production cost of ambient seafood and the lower sales volume owing to the impact of inventory adjustments by its pet food customers in 2023. JCR holds that the Company's profit level will improve from 2024 onward due to the improved profitability of its U.S. frozen and chilled seafood business by exiting its less profitable North Atlantic lobster category and downsizing its shrimp and crab categories, as well as the removal of one-time factors.
- (4) The Company's equity capital ratio (after taking into account the capitalization of subordinated bonds) fell to 33.6% at the end of 2023 due to the impairment loss on its stake in Red Lobster. Its net interest-bearing debt-EBITDA ratio was above 4 times. JCR believes that the Company's financial policy, improvement of its ability to generate cash flow, and the realization of Red Lobster divestiture will lead to an improvement in its financial structure and the balance between its interest-bearing debt and cash flow.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
