

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Sharp Corporation (security code: 6753)

<Outlook Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: BB-
Outlook: from Negative to Stable

Rationale

- (1) Sharp Corporation (the “Company”) is a major home appliances manufacturer under the umbrella of the world’s largest Taiwan-based EMS provider Hon Hai Precision Industry Company Ltd. (“Hon Hai”). Rating on the Company is based on the stand-alone evaluation and reflects Hon Hai’s creditworthiness to a certain extent. Recently, it has been putting efforts on the Brand business including white home appliances, and the Device business manufacturing LCDs and others has been working on the asset-light initiatives. In the first half of the fiscal year ended March 2025 (FY2024), it discontinued production of large-sized LCDs in Sakai Plant. In the second half of FY2024, it transferred the part of land/building of Sakai Plant to Softbank Corp. for 100 billion yen. The Camera Module and Semiconductor businesses are scheduled to be transferred to Hon Hai Group in the first half of FY2025. Furthermore, the Company announced the plan to transfer Kameyama No. 2 plant, which produces small- and medium-sized LCDs, to Hon Hai by August 2026.
- (2) The performance is coming out of the slump. For FY2022 and FY2023, the Company faced severe performance with a main reason of an operating deficit of the Display Device business, but for FY2024, the said business’s operating deficit diminished due in part to the effect of structural reforms. As a result, the operating profit as a whole company turned into the black for the first time in three fiscal years. Although the Display Device business is still the factor constraining the performance, the said business’ operating deficit assume to be in the trend toward diminishing through promoting the asset-light initiatives. For FY2022 and FY2023, the Company continued to report a net loss recording a large amount of extraordinary loss centering on the impairment loss of the Display Device business, but it reported a net profit for the first time in three fiscal years for FY2024 due partly to recording gain on sales of fixed assets. Impairment in the financial foundation was also halted. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the rating on the Company while changing the rating outlook from Negative to Stable.
- (3) For FY2025, the Company projects an operating income of 30 billion yen, up 9.7% over the year, and a net profit of 32 billion yen, down 11.3% over the year. Operating income is expected to grow two consecutive fiscal years and operating loss of the Display Device is expected to continue diminishing. Net profit is expected to decrease because the Company recorded a large amount of gain on sales of fixed assets in the previous fiscal year, but it projects a net profit on par with the operating income because recording of gain on sales of fixed assets entailing from advancement of the asset-light initiatives is assumed to continue.
- (4) Equity capital as at the end of FY2024 was 153.3 billion yen as opposed to 142.4 billion yen as at the end of FY2023, as shown that it increased for the first time in three fiscal years. The equity ratio also improved to 10.5% from 9.0% as at the end of FY2023. Interest-bearing debt also reduced using incoming cash from transferring fixed assets and others as a source of repayment. For FY2025, interest-bearing debt is expected to decrease as cash inflow from transferring fixed assets and others also continues to be anticipated. Due in part to an additional increase in equity capital, it is highly likely that financial structure will continue to improve.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.
