

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

OKAYA & CO., LTD. (security code: 7485)

<Outlook Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A

Outlook: from Stable to Positive

Rationale

- (1) OKAYA & CO., LTD. (the "Company") is a long- and well-established trading firm founded in 1669 and has many blue-chip customers in the automobile-related industries, primarily Toyota Group. The ratio of conditional transaction is high in the Iron & Steel, and it has established a stable relationship with major steel manufacturers for purchases. The Industrial Machinery & Materials has a top-class share in Japan in the automobile-related field. Overseas, it also has abundant track records of delivering products. The Company has diversified earnings sources also operating other segments such as the Information & Electronics and Living Related Products. Recently, three business segments, Iron & Steel, Industrial Machinery & Materials and Information & Electronics, have grown in a well-balanced manner and are raising profits.
- (2) Profit level is on the rise. The Iron and Steel segment is expected to continue to perform well because domestic steel market is assumed to remain high in the future since raw material and fuel prices are rising. In addition, the Company will likely capture the growing demand for capital investment related to vehicle electrification and automatic driving on the back of strong relationships with users. Therefore, profits of the Industrial Machinery & Materials segment will increase from a medium term perspective. In the Information & Electronics, volume of electronic parts and non-ferrous metals used per unit is on the rise due to progress in electrification and weight reduction of automobiles. Further to this, the segment has grown into a pillar of profit alongside the Iron & Steel and the Industrial Machinery & Materials through acquiring Koyo Materica Corp. engaging in processing and selling non-ferrous metal products. Financial standing is sound and there are no particular concerns. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the rating on the Company while revising the outlook from Stable to Positive.
- (3) For the fiscal year ending February 2024 (FY2023), ordinary income is expected to decrease 4.8% over the year to 31 billion yen, following the FY2022 level marked the record high. This will likely be contributed by robust sales centering on products for automobiles, and the performance for the first half exceeded that for the same period in the previous fiscal year. For FY2024 and beyond, performance will likely remain steady. JCR assumes that sales of electromagnetic steel sheets, non-ferrous metals and machinery / equipment related to production of EVs will increase since Japanese automakers have been accelerating electrification.
- (4) Equity ratio improved to 43.0% as at the end of the second quarter of FY2023 from 40.2% as at the end of FY2022. On the back of favorable performance, interest-bearing debt decreased and equity capital also increased. Going forward, system-related investments and others are planned; however, the Company will likely be able to maintain the favorable financial conditions given the outlook of cash flow for the foreseeable future.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.
