

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit ratings.

Kingdom of Denmark

<Affirmation>

|   |        |
|---|--------|
| Foreign Currency Long-term Issuer Rating: | AAA    |
| Outlook:                                  | Stable |
| Local Currency Long-term Issuer Rating:   | AAA    |
| Outlook:                                  | Stable |

Rationale

- (1) The ratings are based on the country's diversified and highly developed economic base, sound public finances and solid resilience to external shocks. The rating outlook remains Stable. Despite the heightened geopolitical uncertainty and ongoing trade friction, the Danish economy continues to grow steadily and public finances remain sound. JCR holds that Denmark will maintain sound fiscal conditions while continuing to pursue domestic demand-led growth, balancing further strengthening of its defense and security systems with responses to green and digitalization. Regarding Greenland, JCR will monitor the outcome of ongoing discussions between Denmark, Greenland, and the United States concerning security and resource development cooperation.
- (2) The per capita nominal GDP exceeded USD76,000 in 2025, one of the highest globally. The country's economic base is solid, supported by diverse and highly internationally competitive industries such as pharmaceuticals, renewable energy-related equipment, maritime transportation and food products, etc. It is a member of the EU but is allowed to opt out of the euro. Its fixed exchange rate regime pegged to the euro is expected to continue to serve as an anchor for the country's economic policy. JCR projects that public and private consumption and investment will continue to drive growth in 2026, bringing a growth of around 2% as in 2025. In the medium term as well, investment in defense enhancement and the transition to green and digital economy will continue, leading to sustained growth of around 1-2% driven by domestic demand.
- (3) Public finances remain sound. To achieve NATO's defense spending target ahead of schedule, the country increased its defense budget to approximately 3% of GDP in 2025. However, the general government fiscal balance is estimated to have secured a surplus of around 2% of GDP. JCR expects that the country will continue to retain a modest fiscal surplus beyond 2026, with the general government debt gradually declining from around 30% of GDP. Successive administrations have implemented reforms of the social security system with an eye to the decreasing labor force resulting from the aging population and increasing social security-related expenditures. Among these reforms, raising the public pension eligibility age seems to be contributing to a sustained reduction of the fiscal burden.
- (4) The country's resilience to external shocks remains solid. In addition to trade surpluses brought by high industrial competitiveness, income account surpluses stemming from interest and dividends received on external assets have been consistently contributing to chronically high current account surpluses. Its net external assets (in IIP terms) at the end of 2025 were estimated to have exceeded 50% of GDP, and its status of a net external creditor nation is unlikely to waver. Meanwhile, the country's financial system stays generally stable as the banking sector secures a reasonable profit while suppressing its nonperforming loan ratio. As of the end of June 2025, the sector's nonperforming loan ratio and Tier 1 ratio stood sound at 2.4% and approximately 20%, respectively.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Economic Base

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to the issuing government's ability to maintain/expand the economic base into the future with maintaining soundness of financial systems.

B) Fiscal Base

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly correlated to fiscal balance, public debt and other factors of the issuing government's fiscal condition.

C) External Positions

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly correlated to the liquidity positions which change along with the international balance of payments and the international investment position.

D) Social and Political Bases and Economic Policy

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to the social and political stability, effectiveness of economic and monetary policies as well as international economics.

E) Related Parties' Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Government

The likelihood of a given debt payment is affected by the stance of the credit enhancement provider and other related parties with regard to their stance of support/ assistance for the issuing government.

F) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuing government's will, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same government in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by international practice, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
