Rakuten Group, Inc. (security code: 4755)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating:	A-
Outlook:	Stable

Bonds (Dated subordinated bonds):	BBB

Rationale

- (1) Rakuten Group, Inc. (the “Company”) is an Internet services company established in 1997. It has the Internet Services segment including Rakuten Ichiba (domestic E-commerce) and Rakuten Travel (travel reservation), the FinTech segment including cards, banking and securities, and the Mobile segment, such as mobile network operator (“MNO”) business. Rakuten Ecosystem, which boasts more than 100 million IDs, is one of the largest economic zones in Japan, forming the core of Rakuten Group’s earnings base.
- (2) An improvement in the Mobile segment is continuing. As a result of steady progress in acquiring subscription contracts taking advantage of Rakuten Ecosystem, Rakuten Mobile, Inc. (“Rakuten Mobile”)’s total number of subscribed lines (total number of MNO, MVNE and MVNO lines, including BCP and other lines) reached 10.75 million lines as of the end of June 2026. On the other hand, the roaming service with KDDI CORPORATION that compliments the communication quality is expected to be phased out in October 2026 and onward as the Company’s own network is deployed. While an improvement in revenue by reducing roaming expenses can be expected, it is necessary to closely monitor whether the Company can maintain a certain level of communication quality and sustain the net growth trend in the number of subscriptions. From the standpoint of recovering the large-scale investments to date, JCR believes it is important to turn the Mobile segment’s operating income positive for the creditworthiness evaluation. In addition to expansion of revenue by building up the number of subscribed lines and an increase in ARPU, JCR will check the trends in investments in base station and operating expenses (including depreciation expenses). Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the ratings on the Company with a Stable outlook.
- (3) The Internet Services segment and Fin Tech segment, the Company’s two core businesses, are steadily performing. There is no change in the Company’s high presence, centering on Rakuten Ichiba, in the domestic E-commerce business. Underpinned by expansion of the domestic E-commerce market, growth in the core businesses can be expected, and revenue improvement is also in progress by selection and concentration in the growth investment businesses and the international business unit. The FinTech segment is expanding the business scope and scale leveraging the cooperation with Rakuten Ecosystem, and an increase in interest income and others in the banking business are boosting the performance. In the Rakuten Group’s reorganization scheduled in October 2026, synergy effects arising from optimization of funding and strengthening customer base and data integration can be expected.
- (4) Consolidated non-GAAP operating income for the fiscal year ended December 2025 (FY2025) was 106.2 billion yen (7 billion yen for FY2024). In addition to the strong performance in the FinTech segment, the reduction in losses in the Mobile segment contributed. Consolidated EBITDA (adding depreciation expenses, etc. to non-GAAP operating income) also increased to 435.9 billion yen (326.0 billion yen for FY2024), and EBITDA of the Mobile segment and Rakuten Mobile on a standalone basis also became profitable. For FY2026, in addition to growth of core two businesses, an improvement in profitability of the Mobile segment can be expected, and consolidated performance is expected to remain steady.
- (5) As of the end of the second quarter of FY2026, non-financial businesses’ net interest-bearing debt/non-financial businesses’ non-GAAP EBITDA was in the 6x range, showing an improvement trend toward achieving the goal to make it within 5x by FY2027. Furthermore, making progress in raising funds by selling securities holdings and others, funds required for redemption of corporate bonds within 2026 have been secured. On the other hand, the Mobile segment intends to accelerate base station investment to improve communication quality, and capital expenditure may continue to be a little over 200 billion yen per annum for the time being. In the most part, the Company intends to cover the fund requirements of the Mobile segment by cash flow from the entire group, and JCR will closely watch to see if it can maintain self-funding.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

11 Explanation or Measure of the Potential Volatility of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(K) of Rule 17g-7

A) Business Bases

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is improvement or deterioration of the issuer's business bases, since its revenue, etc. may improve or deteriorate by the change in its business management policies, clients' preferences, competitive situation, or a technological innovation. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's parent company or subsidiary, guarantor or other provider of credit enhancement, or the government of the issuer's business domicile, or other related parties' own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer, and the change thereby makes its business bases, financial grounds and/ or liquidity positions improve or deteriorate, and/ or making the effectiveness of guarantee and other credit enhancement improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.

G) Various Events

The credit rating is subject to alteration on occurrence of various events, such as change in the issuer's major shareholders, M&A and other organizational change, accident, violation of the law, litigation, legal/ regulatory change, natural disaster, etc., which are unforeseeable at the time when the credit rating is determined, causing a significant change on the issuer's business bases, financial grounds, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but more often than not as much as a few notches.

Information on the Sensitivity of the Credit Rating to Assumptions Made as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(M) of Rule 17g-7

A) Business Bases

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's business bases and powers of earning or cash flow generation, etc. The resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch, as JCR speculates, but possibly as much as a few notches if the development is rapid in improvement or deterioration of the issuer's business bases on some drastic change in the operational environments, etc.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's financial grounds and asset quality. The resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch, as JCR speculates, but possibly as much as a few notches if the development is rapid in improvement or deterioration of the issuer's financial grounds and/ or asset quality on some drastic change in its business bases.

C) Liquidity Risks

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's liquidity positions. The resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch, as JCR speculates, but possibly as much as a few notches if the development is rapid in improvement or deterioration of the issuer's liquidity positions on some drastic change in its financial management policy or relations with fund procurement sources, etc.

D) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the order of seniority in repayment of interests and principal. JCR assumes the resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch. The change could be as much as a few notches if the issuer's financial structure differs so much and thereby the balance between debts shifted so greatly. Rating change is also possible in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turns out to be inaccurate. The change of the credit rating is assumed to be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

E) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the prospects of general economy and markets. JCR expects the change should be most likely by a notch but could be as much as a few notches, should the economy or the markets change so greatly.
