

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Aozora Bank, Ltd. (security code: 8304)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) Aozora Bank, Ltd. (the "Bank") with a fund volume of approximately 4 trillion yen offers retail banking, institutional banking, allied banking, specialty finance, international finance and financial markets services. While its customer base is small in size compared to that of major domestic banks, the Bank operates the strategic investments business in its own way by leveraging the high level of expertise. Its rating is supported by the earnings base founded on revenues from multiple businesses with competitive edges, as well as fairly sound asset quality and capital adequacy, but is constrained by the fact that earnings and asset quality tend to be affected by the external environment.
- (2) Profitability is relatively high. With strength in the areas with medium risks, such as overseas lending and LBO finance, ROA based on consolidated substantial net business income is high compared to other banks, and expense ratio is also fairly decent. On the other hand, earnings are highly volatile because they mostly come from institutional banking, financial markets and other operations that are susceptible to changes in market conditions. Yet, as earnings sources are diversified into different segments, the Bank has been controlling earnings volatility to a certain extent on the whole, thereby attaining firm consolidated substantial net business income even in the midst of the COVID crisis. If the Bank could further diversify its earnings sources, this would positively affect the rating. The Bank is beginning to increase equity investments so as to support ventures and the transformation of industrial structures, including business reorganization and recovery initiatives. JCR is watching whether the Bank can keep balance between risks and returns in such endeavors.
- (3) Credit is highly concentrated into particular fields, such as domestic and overseas real estate finances and overseas corporate loans, and asset quality is susceptible to external conditions. Price fluctuation risk of investment trusts, etc. is also relatively large. Yet, sound asset quality is maintained through conservative loan-loss provisions and agile portfolio rebalancing under the prudent credit management policy. Non-performing loans ratio disclosed under the Financial Reconstruction Act is low, standing at 0.5% as of December 31, 2021, and credit costs are well-controlled as of now. Looking ahead, although there is a risk that factors like the prolongation of the COVID crisis and rises in interest rates overseas will reduce asset quality, JCR predicts that the Bank can control it within the scope of its own capital strength.
- (4) Capital adequacy is fairly high. Consolidated core capital ratio after JCR's adjustment stood at around 10% as of September 30, 2021. Even with the expansion of risk assets, returns to shareholders, etc. taken into consideration, JCR assumes that the Bank can maintain capital adequacy commensurate with a rating in the A category over the medium term. JCR finds no particular concerns about liquidity. While expanding foreign currency-denominated assets, the Bank is improving its structure for foreign currency financing by diversifying financing means.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7
