

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

KYOEI STEEL LTD. (security code: 5440)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A-
Outlook: Stable
Bonds: A-

Rationale

- (1) KYOEI STEEL LTD. (the "Company") is an electric arc furnace manufacturer for ordinary steel with the largest domestic share for small rebar and an equity-method affiliate of NIPPON STEEL CORPORATION having 26.7% voting rights as of March 31, 2023. Given that the Company conducts business independently, its own creditworthiness is reflected in the ratings. Overseas, the Company established a production base in southern Vietnam in 1994 and has since then expanded its business base to include the northern area as well. It also manufactures and sells steel products for the construction and mining industries in the U.S. and Canada. In the material recycling business, it melts a wide variety of waste with the arc heat generated when electric furnaces are in operation and also by using gasification furnaces, etc.
- (2) Mutual complementation of profits among the regions is working effectively, curbing fluctuations in business performance. Business operations in Vietnam continue to face a severe business environment due to sluggish demand and profitability deterioration caused by intensifying competition, and thus its full-fledged recovery may take time. The domestic steel business on the other hand is not only superior in cost competitiveness but is also successfully reflecting increases in the costs of raw materials and fuels in selling prices, by and large, albeit with some time lags, and JCR assumes that this segment will be driving the Company's overall profits for the time being. Moreover, operations in North America are expected to keep making profit contribution thanks to robust demand for steel products. The risk of a decline in earnings in other businesses is also low. The Company's financial position remains good. Based on the above, JCR affirmed the ratings on the Company and retained the Stable outlook.
- (3) Ordinary income is expected to improve for the second consecutive year in the fiscal year ending March 2024 (FY2023) with 22.7% year-on-year growth to 18 billion yen. As a likely contributing factor, the income will increase in the domestic steel business thanks to growth in sales volume and the expansion of metal spreads. The Company will likely be able to keep attaining a certain level of ordinary income into FY2024 and beyond. In the domestic steel business, improvements in business practices have made it easier to secure metal spreads than in the past. For the operations in North America, while the impact of the fire that broke out at Vinton Steel LLC needs to be examined, the impact of a temporary reduction in production due to large-scale repairs carried out in FY2023 is expected to be eliminated. Although business recovery in Vietnam is feared to be delayed, this will likely be covered mostly by other businesses.
- (4) Equity ratio as of June 30, 2023 was 54.8%, improving slightly from 51.9% at March 31, 2022. Equity capital has increased with profit accumulation. Despite a delay in the timing of investment, the Company plans to increase production capacity in Vietnam and Canada, which suggests that large spending will continue for a while. Given the cash flow outlook, the Company will probably be able to maintain its financial structure at around the current level into the future, but JCR will nevertheless keep watching balance between investment and financial soundness.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds.
