Rationale

Issuer: Orient Corporation

- (1) Orient Corporation (“Orico”) is a major credit sales company and an equity-method affiliate of Mizuho Financial Group, Inc. (“Mizuho FG”). The Company operates settlement and guarantee business, overseas business, credit cards and cash loans business, installment credit business, and bank loan guarantees business. In light of Mizuho FG’s degree of control/involvement and management importance, JCR decided Orico’s rating as A+ based on Mizuho FG’s group creditworthiness of the AA equivalent.
- (2) Mizuho FG has a certain degree of control/involvement in Orico. Mizuho FG holds approximately 49% voting rights, and several directors including the president and representative director are from Mizuho Bank, Ltd. (“Mizuho Bank”), and the business management is highly integrated. Orico’s management importance for Mizuho FG is high. In Mizuho FG, Orico handles installment credit, credit guarantees, etc., and has an important strategic and functional position.
- (3) Orico has a high market position and competitiveness in installment credit and bank loan guarantees, and holds one of the top shares in the industry. It also has a large customer base in the credit cards and cash loans area as well as the settlement and guarantee area. Overseas, it is expanding its business mainly in Thailand. Under the business portfolio management, it is actively investing management resources in the high-growth areas of settlement and guarantee as well as overseas, and is steadily increasing its transaction volume. On the other hand, in order to improve the profitability of installment credit, Orico has begun structural reforms such as the profitability management of merchants.
- (4) Regarding the earning capacity, there is room for improvement in its profitability. Orico’s ability to absorb certain bad debt-related expenses and financial costs through core profits and its ROA are rather low. On the other hand, it has been able to earn stable profits by diversifying its earnings sources. Although it will likely take some time for the full-scale structural reform effects of the installment credit will materialize, JCR sees that it will be able to secure a certain level of solid profits, supported by a decline in depreciation and amortization for core systems. JCR is keeping an eye on whether Orico can increase profitability over the medium term through the business portfolio management.
- (5) Asset quality is sound. Major operating assets such as installment credit, credit guarantees, and credit card cards are well diversified into small lots. Under a sound credit management policy, the delinquent loan ratio and the bad debt write-off ratio are kept under control compared to previous fiscal years. Interest repayment risk is also gradually decreasing. Meanwhile, JCR is paying attention to whether Orico can strengthen its receivables management and collection system in the overseas business, and there by control the quality of assets.
- (6) Capital adequacy is commensurate with the A range. The size of capital is increasing with profit accumulation. The JCR-adjusted capital adequacy ratio and capital margin relative to risk remain at sufficient levels. Regarding the risk management structure, progress has been made in developing a monitoring system and so forth. JCR will keep an eye on whether it can increase risk/return and cost/return while ensuring financial soundness. There are no particular concerns on liquidity. It has stable business relationships with a variety of financial institutions, including its main Mizuho Bank, and has a robust indirect financing base. It also has a strong track record in CP, corporate bonds and receivables securitization. Its financing methods are well diversified.

Issuer: Orient Corporation

- (1) Orico Auto Leasing Co., Ltd. (“OAL”) is a major auto leasing company for individuals. OAL is a consolidated subsidiary of Orico and an equity method affiliate of Tokyo Century Corporation. In light of Orico’s degree of control/involvement and management importance, JCR decided that OAL’s rating is equivalent to Orico’s group creditworthiness.
- (2) Orico has a high degree of control/involvement in OAL. Orico holds 66% voting rights and dispatches several directors including the president and representative director, and has a high degree of involvement in decision-making and strong integration in business management. It also has high management importance for Orico. OAL’s auto leasing business is highly important in terms of strategy and function for Orico, as it has a mutually complementary relationship with Orico’s mainstay auto loan business.
- (3) Orico plans to make OAL a consolidated subsidiary in September 2023 and further strengthen its leasing business. In particular, OAL aims to capture leasing demand in the EV and power charging equipment field, where the market is expected to expand. JCR is paying attention to whether the Orico Group as a whole can work together to further improve its position in the individual auto leasing market.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.

G) Various Events

The credit rating is subject to alteration on occurrence of various events, such as change in the issuer's major shareholders, M&A and other organizational change, accident, violation of the law, litigation, legal/ regulatory change, natural disaster, etc., which are unforeseeable at the time when the credit rating is determined, causing a significant change on the issuer's business bases, financial grounds, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but more often than not as much as a few notches.
