

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Starzen Company Limited (security code: 8043)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: BBB+
Outlook: Positive
Bonds: BBB+

Rationale

- (1) Starzen Company Limited (the "Company") is a large meat wholesaler. While mainly engaged in meat sales, the Company also offers processed foods such as ham and sausage, as well as hamburger patty for McDonald's Japan. With strength in its ability to procure meat in and outside Japan and to provide various parts of meat according to customer needs, it boasts a solid customer base consisting of major retailers, food manufacturers, etc. Moreover, it is focusing on the enhancement of food safety management by promoting the acquisition of SQF (Safe Quality Food) certification at its plants and sales offices across the nation.
- (2) Profits in recent years have been staying high despite the lingering tough business environment. The Company's priority measures over the past few years, including shifting to a profit-oriented sales strategy and increasing the added value of products, are beginning to pay off, resulting in the stabilization of the earnings base. JCR finds no particular concerns in the financial aspect. That said, it was discovered that improper transactions had been conducted at one of the sales offices for some time. Because their impact on business performance and finances is marginal, JCR concludes that the impact on the rating, too, is limited; in any case, the implementation status of measures to prevent recurrence, including the compliance system and internal control functions, needs to be monitored. Moreover, as the Company is working on changes in personnel and organizational structure, JCR will watch whether it can maintain the stable earnings capacity even under the new structure. Based on the above, JCR affirmed the ratings on the Company and retained the Positive outlook.
- (3) Operating income is expected to fall 8.1% over the year to 7.5 billion yen in the fiscal year ending March 2024 (FY2023), which is the second-highest after FY2022's record-high. The Company is leveraging its own strength in advanced meat processing technology to enhance the development of high value-added products by, for instance, extending expiration dates, which appears to be contributing to expanding transactions and improving profitability. It has also been working on stricter inventory management in order to maintain inventory in line with market conditions. JCR views that the risk of fluctuations in earnings due to market conditions has been curbed as a result, but the aforementioned misconduct has given rise to an urgent need to establish more sophisticated management methods in terms of compliance, such as strengthening physical stocktaking and inventory monitoring.
- (4) Equity capital and ratio as of December 31, 2023 were 75.6 billion yen and 47.1%, as opposed to 70.4 billion yen and 48.1% at March, 31, 2023. Even though inventory remains high due to high market prices, risks to the earnings and finances are limited as inventory is controlled according to demand. Under the current medium-term management plan for FY2023 through FY2025, the Company intends to make growth investments of 40 billion yen in total. While there will be times when interest-bearing debt will increase, JCR predicts that the Company can still maintain the sound financial structure as it will likely make steady progress in improving equity capital.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's parent company or subsidiary, guarantor or other provider of credit enhancement, or the government of the issuer's business domicile, or other related parties' own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer, and the change thereby makes its business bases, financial grounds and/ or liquidity positions improve or deteriorate, and/ or making the effectiveness of guarantee and other credit enhancement improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
