

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

SBI FinTech Solutions Co., Ltd. (security code: -)

<Rating Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: from BBB to BBB+
Outlook: Stable
Bonds: from BBB to BBB+

Rationale

- (1) SBI FinTech Solutions Co., Ltd. (the “Company”) is a consolidated subsidiary of SBI Holdings, Inc. (“SBIHD”), where SBIHD holds an approximately 80% stake in the Company. The Company’s operations comprise the payment service business for settlement agency services for credit cards, etc. and factoring services; the corporate support business providing back-office support services for SMEs; and the individual money service business for international remittance services in South Korea. The Company is strategically positioned in the financial services business of the SBI Group (the “Group”) as an entity to support the core financial operations. Despite the low profit level in the entire Group, the Company is deemed to be a highly important subsidiary for the Group because it provides services that are useful in promoting business with regional financial institutions as the Group is working to expand cooperation with such institutions. Accordingly, JCR reflects the Group’s creditworthiness in the Company’s ratings. As the evaluation of the Group’s creditworthiness has been raised, JCR upgraded the ratings on the Company by one notch to BBB+, too.
- (2) The Company transferred SBI Remit Co., Ltd. (“SBI Remit”), which provides international remittance services, to SBIHD in March 2022. SBI Remit previously was a major consolidated subsidiary, accounting for the majority of total revenue of the Company’s own group companies, but had recently been unprofitable because of sluggish demand for remittance due to the lingering COVID crisis. The transfer is thus expected to help improve the earnings. Also, the Company has formulated a policy to further strengthen cooperation with the Group by concentrating management resources into the corporate business from now on, including settlement agency services and back-office support services.
- (3) Looking at consolidated revenue, it is accounted for roughly 70% by the payment service business, 20% by the corporate support business and 10% by the individual money service business. Operating income after retrospective correction for the fiscal year ended March 2022 (FY2021) decreased 0.41 billion yen from the previous year to 0.37 billion yen due to aggressive upfront investments, higher marketing costs, etc. Even though the Company intends to continue aggressive spending for a while to expand the business base, the income will likely remain firm as market expansion can be expected for all of the Company’s businesses. JCR will closely watch whether the Company can boost the income by also strengthening alignment with the Group’s regional financial institution business.
- (4) Consolidated total assets and consolidated capital as of the end of FY2021 were 43.3 billion yen and 4.8 billion yen, respectively. Equity ratio stood at around 11%, which is not high partly because of the fact that funds are needed mainly for factoring transactions, but the capital level is nevertheless decent relative to risks. In the payment service business, the Company bears credit risk primarily in factoring transactions. Currently, it is mainly increasing the low-risk receivables, and thus credit risk is not considered to be high. However, the outstanding balance is growing rapidly, and the concentration of credit to large customers is somewhat high. JCR will pay close attention to the future credit management system and the status of risk-taking. Meanwhile, financing is increasing with the expansion of factoring transactions. The Company is striving to diversify financing by raising funds from multiple financial institutions, centering on Mizuho Bank, Ltd. as the main bank, and also by issuing corporate bonds, liquidating receivables, etc. Therefore, there are no major concerns about liquidity.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
