

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Kyodo Housing Loan Co., Ltd. (security code: -)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: AA-
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) Kyodo Housing Loan Co., Ltd. ("KHL") is a nonbank specialized in housing loans and is owned over 90% by The Norinchukin Bank ("Norinchukin") and the remaining by the credit federation in each region, and others. Since the establishment, it has been operating the housing loan business, and is now also offering housing loan guarantees of Japan Agricultural Cooperatives ("JA") and Japan Fisheries Cooperatives ("JF"). It has established a differentiated business model from other companies'. It has a loan balance of approximately 210 billion yen and a guarantee balance of approximately 3 trillion yen. Norinchukin's control over and involvement in KHL are strong as shown that it has sent almost all the directors in addition to holding a majority of the voting rights in KHL. JA Bank has been striving to promote the housing loan business under its retail business strategies, and KHL, which has expertise in housing loans, comprehensively involves in it, not only provision of guarantees, but through cooperating in sales side and acting as a contact point of Norinchukin and JA/JF in product planning, indicating KHL's high significance in the functional perspective. Given these, JCR views that feasibility of Norinchukin extending support to KHL is high, and evaluated KHL's issuer rating AA- based on the Norinchukin Group's creditworthiness.
- (2) In the loan business, KHL evaluates deals meticulously based on the accumulated know-how such as evaluating cases, which are less likely to be applicable to the scoring model assessment conducted by general banks, etc., from various perspectives and others. JCR views that the loan balance will continue to increase while maintaining a certain yield partly because KHL's unique screening system hardly allows other banks, etc. to follow in terms of time and cost required. In the guarantee business, KHL also diligently handles individual transactions supporting JA/JF in promoting housing loans. The guarantee balance is consistently expanding and is assumed to keep growing as housing loans of JA/JF expand going forward.
- (3) Asset quality is good. For both the loan and guarantee businesses, delinquency rates are low and defaults and subrogation are very few. JCR views that KHL's screening style to explore and examine quantitative and qualitative factors as much as possible contributing to the asset quality in both the loan and guarantee businesses.
- (4) Because of low guarantee fee rates, etc., ROA based on ordinary income (including guarantee balance) is low, standing at around 0.1% and the size of income is also small. However, as credit costs are controlled at a low level, profitability is ensured for both the guarantee and loan businesses. Operating revenue has been gradually growing due to topping up of guarantee fee income as the scope of guarantee business expands in addition to stable interest on loans. Although costs are expected to somewhat increase due to the system upgrading and a slight increase in provision rate, a certain amount of net income will be ensured by growth of income stemming from expansion of guarantee balance going forward.
- (5) KHL has a sufficient risk buffer, i.e. net assets plus provision for losses on guarantees, which amounted to 47.3 billion yen as at the end of March 2023. Equity ratio based on total assets including guarantee balance is relatively high. JCR views that KHL has enough risk buffer to sufficiently withstand stresses.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7
