

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Takara Leben Real Estate Investment Corporation (security code: 3492)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) Takara Leben Real Estate Investment Corporation (“TLR”) is a diversified J-REIT listed in July 2018. It invests in offices, residences, hotels, retail facilities and other properties. Takara Leben Co., Ltd. (“Takara Leben”), which has been the main sponsor from before, was reorganized into a holding company MIRARTH HOLDINGS, Inc. (“MIRARTH HOLDINGS”) and its wholly-owned subsidiary Takara Leben, which handles the real estate business, as a result of the transition to a holding company structure in October 2022. The shareholding in its asset manager (the “AM”) is as follows: MIRARTH Holdings 60%, PAG Real Estate Holding Limited 30%, KYORITSU MAINTENANCE CO., LTD. 5% and YAMADA HOLDINGS CO., LTD. 5%. TLR aims to pursue steady growth and stable management by leveraging the expertise and know-how of the sponsors.
- (2) TLR additionally acquired 17 properties worth 21.8 billion yen in the most recent one year by using funds raised through public offerings, additional borrowings, and proceeds from the sale of some properties. Consequently, the asset size has expanded to 62 properties with a total acquisition price of 131.6 billion yen. While the pipeline is sufficiently accumulated, centered on projects developed by Takara Leben, JCR will continue to pay attention to the growth strategy of the AM toward further progress in portfolio diversification, amid the current increasingly severe environment surrounding J-REITs for fund procurement and for property acquisition in the real estate trading market. In terms of property management, TLR maintains good performance overall, and it is demonstrating a decent level of stress tolerance as a diversified portfolio leveraging the sponsors’ strength, in JCR’s view. On the financial front, generally conservative management is continued, as indicated by the stable LTV control and lender composition. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the rating on TLR with Stable outlook.
- (3) For external growth including asset replacement, while working to sell off mainly old properties in local areas, TLR is aggressively adding new residences, for which high stability is expected, to its portfolio. At the time of the property acquisition with the most recent capital increase (in March 2023), the ratio of residences in the portfolio rose to around 37%, and the average age of buildings became about 18 years, younger than the past level. NT Building, from which a major tenant moved out, is also acquiring tenants in a fast pace, and the average occupancy rate for the entire portfolio is kept at a high level of 99%. As the softening of the balance between supply and demand for rental properties in the office market is being observed, JCR will pay attention to the initiatives of the AM to maintain the quality and performance of properties owned including the use of CAPEX.
- (4) On the financial front, the total asset-based LTV was 47.2% on a book value basis and 45.0% on a market value basis (interest-bearing debt / (total assets + unrealized gains or losses)) for the latest fiscal period ended February 2023; the ratio is basically under constant control. In terms of the lender composition, TLR maintains a business relationship with 22 financial institutions, primarily with Sumitomo Mitsui Banking Corporation, and JCR finds no particular concerns about the financial management. As regards financing conditions, for the fiscal period ended February 2023, the average remaining debt period was about 2.8 years, and fixed interest rate ratio was 99.2%. JCR will follow up on TLR’s future efforts, such as the issuance of investment corporation bonds aimed at building a stronger financial base by extending financing periods and laddering maturities.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and market environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Portfolios

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's portfolios - how they can be maintained/ enhanced into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a J-REIT might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions) including certainty of refinancing.

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as sponsor, asset manager, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. - The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

11 Explanation or Measure of the Potential Volatility of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(K) of Rule 17g-7

A) Portfolios

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is improvement or deterioration of quality, competitive strength and diversification in the issuer's portfolios, since its revenue, etc. may improve or deteriorate by the change in its investment strategies, tenants' preferences, competitive situation, or a technological innovation. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the portfolios is large.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's sponsor or asset manager, guarantor or other provider of credit enhancement, or the government of the issuer's business domicile, or other related parties' own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer, and the change thereby makes its portfolios, financial grounds and/ or liquidity positions improve or deteriorate, and/ or making the effectiveness of guarantee and other credit enhancement improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets, of e.g. real estate or interest rates, inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.

G) Various Events

The credit rating is subject to alteration on occurrence of various events, such as change in the issuer's sponsor or asset manager, M&A and other organizational change, accident, violation of the law, litigation, legal/ regulatory change, natural disaster, etc., which are unforeseeable at the time when the credit rating is determined, causing a significant change on the issuer's business bases, financial grounds, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but more often than not as much as a few notches.
