

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

ZENKOKU HOSHO Co., Ltd. (security code: 7164)

<Rating Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: from A- to A
Outlook: from Positive to Stable
Subordinated Loan: from BBB to BBB+

Rationale

- (1) ZENKOKU HOSHO Co., Ltd. (the “Company”) is an independent guaranty company for housing loans. By establishing business partnerships with more than 90% of regional banks, shinkin banks and credit unions, it has established a business base centered on regional financial institutions. It also cooperates with leading regional banks and major banks, and its guarantees outstanding at the end of September 2022, including those of group companies, is large, exceeding 15 trillion yen. JCR positively evaluates factors, such as the Company’s business base as one of the leading guaranty companies in Japan, stable and fairly good earning capacity, and well-diversified guarantee portfolio. In addition, as capital has steadily accumulated, JCR sees that profits will expand due to a steady rise in guarantees outstanding, and capital adequacy will improve further. Hence JCR has upgraded the issuer rating to A.
- (2) Although the amount of guarantees granted has fluctuated with the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, among others, the guarantees outstanding has been steadily increasing. In addition to an expansion in operating revenue, credit costs are at a low level. As a result, ordinary income has continued to grow since the fiscal year ended March 2012 (FY2011), and the income level is high. The ROA based on ordinary income with guarantees outstanding considered is maintained in the upper 0.2% range. The pace of the increase in the guarantees outstanding has been slower than in the past due to a decline in the amount of guarantees granted to large partners, which had been the driving force behind the high growth in guarantees outstanding. However, JCR believes that the guarantees outstanding will continue to rise and that operating revenue will keep expanding as the Company focuses on increasing the usage rates by existing partners. Given that expenses are kept down and the capacity to absorb credit costs with periodic revenue is at a decent level, the Company will likely be able to continue to attain a net income.
- (3) Recently, the subrogation repayment rate has been low, and credit costs have been stable. With the guarantee portfolio diversified into small lots nationwide, the asset position including guarantees outstanding remains sound. Although the impact of the pandemic is minor, the medium-to long-term trends need to be confirmed because the subrogation repayment rate may rise and credit costs may increase, when the economy stagnates for a long period of time or when interest rates ascend to a considerable extent, in JCR’s view. As regards assets under management, cash and deposits account for more than 30% and bonds account for more than 60% of the total. Although the balance of bonds is increasing, the Company constrains credit risk by limiting them to high-rated ones.
- (4) For long-term guarantee periods, ample capital is vital as a risk buffer against losses. The ratio of substantial equity capital (including hybrid securities) to total assets including guarantees outstanding has been improving every year, standing at the middle of the 1.3% range as of September 30, 2022, which indicates that the Company secures a reasonable amount of capital responding to the guarantee portfolio diversified into small lots. JCR believes that the equity ratio will rise further as internal reserves will build up for the near future.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
