

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

ARUHI Corporation (security code: 7198)

<Outlook Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A-
Outlook: from Stable to Positive

<Affirmation>

CP: J-1

Rationale

- (1) ARUHI Corporation (the “Company”) is a mortgage bank whose main product is Flat 35 of the Japan Housing Finance Agency (“JHF”). The Company has developed a business model that controls credit and interest rate risks through the transfer of receivables and securitization. The Company has the largest share of Flat 35 loans in the industry. The Company’s rating reflects its strong business foundation, backed by its high market position and competitiveness in the housing loan market. JCR revised the rating outlook from Stable to Positive, given the increase in its substantial capital level through the accumulation of profits from its solid performance in recent years and the capital enhancement by hybrid loan this time. JCR will confirm future developments such as further improvement in capital adequacy and reflect them in the rating.
- (2) The Company has a strong market position and competitive edge in the housing loan business. The Company has strengths in its nationwide network of sales offices through franchises, broad product lineup offering the lowest interest rates in the industry, and speed of loan execution through the use of IT. The Company’s earnings capacity is relatively stable. Although the number of mortgage loans has been sluggish under the COVID-19 pandemic, the Company has been able to secure a certain level of profit on the back of increased stock revenue from loan management and collection services and a cost structure that controls fixed costs. In addition to the existing mortgage business, the Company has positioned the real estate and consumer service businesses as its core businesses under the medium-term management plan started in the fiscal year ending March 2022. JCR will pay attention to whether this leads to further growth in stock revenue and diversification of revenue sources.
- (3) Credit and interest rate risks associated with receivables are under control. Flat 35 loans under the purchase program of JHF are off-balanced by transferring them to JHF at the same time as the mortgage loans are executed. JHF-guaranteed Flat 35 loans are also insured by specific housing loan insurance. The credit risk of other products is also controlled by guarantees. Interest rate risk is also limited during the period before the securitization of Flat 35 under the purchase program of JHF. In the real estate business, the Company has started to purchase and resell used condominiums, and it is necessary to closely monitor the status of purchases and sales. However, JCR believes that the risk is limited at this point, as the Company is operating the business with caution by strictly selecting properties.
- (4) The Company has sufficient capital to cover its credit risk and interest rate risk. Despite the large amount of goodwill generated by past changes in major shareholders, the Company’s capital adequacy relative to goodwill has been improving thanks to progress in profit accumulation and procurement of hybrid loans. It secures liquidity. The Company has a stable indirect financing base centered on its main bank, Mizuho Bank, Ltd. Although the number of JHF-guaranteed Flat 35 loans is increasing, there is no problem with the securitization status.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. - The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.
