

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

FURUKAWA CO., LTD. (security code: 5715)

<Rating Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: from BBB to BBB+
Outlook: from Positive to Stable

<Affirmation>

CP: J-2

Rationale

- (1) FURUKAWA CO., LTD. (the "Company") operates in diverse business domains such as Metals, Industrial Machinery, Electronic Materials and Chemicals by taking advantage of the technologies fostered in mine development. Previously, ratio of earnings from the Metals relative to the Company's earnings was high, but the Industrial Machinery is the core earnings source at present. The Industrial Machinery has many products with high market shares including sewage pumps, tunnel drill jumbo (machinery using at tunnel construction sites) and UNIC cranes (truck-mounted cranes). On the other hand, in the Metals, it plans to finish the commissioned smelting to Onahama Smelting and Refining Co., Ltd. ("Onahama Smelting and Refining"), which accounts for more than 30% of the copper production, the end of March 2023. as its smelting costs has been exceeding revenue of the conditions for purchasing copper.
- (2) The Company's earnings capacity has steadily been strengthened. Although the Rock Drill Machinery reported a loss in the fiscal year ended March 2021 (FY2020), profitability has improved since then through shifting to the profit-oriented sales strategy from placing emphasis on the number of units sold. In Metals, volume of unprofitable exports will likely decrease due to termination of the entrusted smelting agreement with Onahama Smelting and Refining. In addition, JCR sees performance stability will increase through scaling back the business size. In the Industrial Machinery, profitability has improved by handling from design to all the way to installation. The UNIC Machinery is expected to secure a certain amount of profits underpinned by the high market share and others in the future as well. On the back of steady profits, the financial conditions have improved from the past. Based on the above, JCR has upgraded the Company's rating by one notch to BBB+ while revising the outlook from Positive to Stable.
- (3) For FY2022, the Company projects operating profit to decrease 9.5% over the year to 7 billion yen. The main reasons causing the decrease will be a decline in unit sales in the UNIC Machinery in association with a reduction in production of trucks, and a decrease in profits in the Metals due to a decline in the non-ferrous metal market conditions. JCR sees the performance will likely improve for FY2023 onward. Profitability of the Metals is expected to improve, and also demand will recover in the UNIC Machinery over the medium term. For other segments, demands are generally steady and continuous profit contribution can still be expected.
- (4) Equity ratio had been in the 30% range from the end of FY2014 to the end of FY2019; however, the financial conditions are improving as shown that the ratio rose to the 40% range at the end of FY2020 and at the end of FY2021, and others. Over the medium term, a burden of fund requirement for M&As, etc. may arise; however, there is little concern over the substantial deterioration in the financial conditions as the Company will likely maintain the steady cash flow generation ability.

- Please see the news release. If the credit rating is a private rating, please see the report for private rating.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
