Tokai Tokyo Securities Co., Ltd. (security code: -)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: BBB+
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) The Tokai Tokyo Financial Group (the “Group”) is a second-tier securities group with a strength in the retail sector centered on face-to-face consulting sales. In recent years, the Group has been enhancing the services for high-net-worth individuals. Under the holding company, Tokai Tokyo Financial Holdings, Inc. (“TTFH”), the Group includes several affiliates as follows: the core company, Tokai Tokyo Securities Co., Ltd. (“Tokai Tokyo Securities”); digital subsidiaries such as CHEER Securities Inc.; and joint venture securities companies (“JVs”) partnered with regional banks. By evaluating the business base established centered on in the retail sector and the JV business, as well as a sufficiently high capital level relative to quantity of risk, among other points, JCR determined the group creditworthiness as being equivalent to a BBB+ rating. Amid the ongoing uncertain market environment, there is a possibility that the phases of increased profit volatility will continue, making it a key point whether the Group can secure a certain level of earning capacity.
- (2) Although the Group’s business scale is small in comparison to major securities companies, it has established a certain business base in the retail sector. The total assets under custody of the entire Group, including JVs, stood at approximately 11 trillion yen at the end of June 2025 and have been on an increasing trend in the medium- to long-term. By providing detailed consulting services to corporate executives and strengthening the IFA business, the Group is steadily capturing the target high-net-worth individuals. Going forward, it plans to implement measures aimed at capturing the mass affluent segment. On the other hand, while the Group set out a policy to expand businesses by strengthening financial functions mainly in the digital field and partnering with companies such as banks and operating companies, which have a sufficient customer base, it is taking more time than initially expected. The Group positions this strategy as the pillar of its medium-term growth. JCR will be closely watching whether it can realize partnerships early and further expand assets under custody.
- (3) Regarding earning capacity, JCR sees that the challenge as raising profit levels while suppressing volatility. Although efforts are being made to diversify revenue sources, the proportion of stock commission fees and trading profit and loss, which are susceptible to market fluctuations, in net operating revenue remains high, resulting in significant profit volatility. JCR will continue to follow up on whether earning capacity can be enhanced through productivity improvement by using digital tools, while increasing the proportion of stock revenue. Ordinary profit sharply recovered in the fiscal year ended March 2024 (FY2023), driven by a thriving stock market, and remained relatively steady in FY2024, but declined from the fourth quarter of FY2024 into the first quarter of FY2025. The decline was largely on the back of reduced trading flows of stocks and other securities amid the U.S. tariff policies and other factors. The current market environment is gradually stabilizing, but JCR will monitor its impact on future earnings.
- (4) As of the end of June 2025, the Group’s consolidated shareholders’ equity stood in the lower 170 billion yen range, indicating a sufficient size against risks, and the standalone capital adequacy ratio of Tokai Tokyo Securities was in the mid-400% range, suggesting no issues with capital adequacy. The scale of the wholesale business is not so large and trading primarily centers on customer flows, resulting in a small quantity of risk. Funding is primarily procured through bank loans, call money and repos, while issuing corporate bonds. In addition to holding abundant assets that are easy to liquidate, mainly government bonds, a sufficient credit lines such as commitment lines are also secured; hence, concerns about liquidity are minimal.

Issuer: Tokai Tokyo Financial Holdings, Inc.

TTFH is the Group's holding company. The issuer rating is considered equivalent to the group creditworthiness. The double leverage ratio has remained below a certain level, and given its financial management policy, the stability of the cash flow balance is expected to be maintained going forward. Therefore, the structural subordination of a holding company is not reflected.

Issuer: Tokai Tokyo Securities Co., Ltd.

Tokai Tokyo Securities is the Group's core securities company, for which all voting rights are held by TTFH. While centered in the Tokai region, it has developed branches nationwide, including Tokyo and Osaka, which account for the most of the Group's total assets and earnings. The issuer rating is regarded as equivalent to the group creditworthiness, given its core position within the Group, among others.

The assumptions for the credit ratings and the definitions of the rating symbols are published as "Types of Credit Ratings and Definitions of Rating Symbols" (January 6, 2014) in Information about JCR Ratings on JCR's website (<https://www.jcr.co.jp/en/>).

Outline of the rating methodology is shown as "JCR's Rating Methodology" (October 1, 2024), "Securities" (April 2, 2025) and "Rating Methodology for Financial Groups' Holding Companies and Group Companies" (September 1, 2022) in Information about JCR Ratings on JCR's website (<https://www.jcr.co.jp/en/>).

The rating stakeholder participated in the rating process of the aforementioned credit ratings.

A program rating is assigned to evaluate the creditworthiness of a program. The credit standing of an individual note issued under the program may be regarded as the same as that of the rated program. However, JCR does not consider the credit standing of the individual note as the same as that of the program, in the cases where the principal and interest payments of the individual note rely on the credit standing of a third party rather than the issuer of the program and notes (e.g. credit linked notes and exchangeable notes). JCR usually does not assign a rating to the individual note issued under the program, unless the issuer solicits a rating.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.

G) Various Events

The credit rating is subject to alteration on occurrence of various events, such as change in the issuer's major shareholders, M&A and other organizational change, accident, violation of the law, litigation, legal/ regulatory change, natural disaster, etc., which are unforeseeable at the time when the credit rating is determined, causing a significant change on the issuer's business bases, financial grounds, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but more often than not as much as a few notches.
