

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

PayPay Bank Corporation (security code: -)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A+

Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) PayPay Bank Corporation (the "Bank") is an online-only bank offering settlement and loan services online and through a mobile app and a consolidated subsidiary of Z Holdings Corporation ("ZHD") (long-term issuer rating: AA-), a holding company having Yahoo Japan Corporation under its umbrella and offering financial services under the PayPay brand. It changed its company name from The Japan Net Bank, Limited to the current one in April 2021. It is also an equity-method affiliate of Sumitomo Mitsui Banking Corporation ("SMBC") (long-term issuer rating: AA), and ZHD and SMBC have an equal ownership interest of 46.57%. The Bank's rating reflects the evaluation of the Bank's stand-alone creditworthiness based on the decent business base as an Internet bank, solid business performance and high capital adequacy. It also factors in JCR's view that SMBC is most likely to be strongly involved in the Bank's management and provide appropriate support in a timely manner as a business partner with know-hows in banking operations, which ZHD does not possess. The Bank is currently strengthening its ties with the ZHD Group. Whether the Bank's position in the ZHD Group will become clearer or whether the Bank's earnings capacity will increase further is the key to future rating decisions.
- (2) In terms of sales, collaboration with PayPay Corporation is producing positive results. The number of accounts as of December 31, 2021 showed steady growth, rising 17% from a year before. Core net business income also improved in the third quarter of the fiscal year ending March 2022 by as much as 25% from the same period a year earlier. Thanks to the expanding customer base, the number of payments increased, mainly for publicly operated sports betting and debit card transactions, which, combined with growth in unsecured loans, helped boost revenues to offset the rise in the cost of acquiring new customers and advertising. That said, strategic expenses are expected to increase going forward due partly to business expansion. Profit contribution from housing loans, which are regarded as a new earnings source, is still small. JCR will therefore closely watch whether the Bank can raise the profit level by expanding its business through collaboration with ZHD.
- (3) Asset quality is generally good. Unsecured loans to individuals are guaranteed by external parties. As regards housing loans, which are now tending to increase, borrowers were all normal debtors as of September 30, 2021. Given that they are products secured by collateral with the established examination methods, they are not likely to lead to a sharp increase in credit costs. The Bank's investment policy for securities is generally prudent, and credit risk, interest rate risk and price fluctuation risk are not excessive in relation to capital.
- (4) Core capital ratio as of December 31, 2021 was 12.04%. It is on the decline mainly due to an increase in loan balance but still is at a decent level. Although risk assets are expected to increase going forward partly because of growth in loan balance, JCR assumes that the Bank can maintain a sufficient level of capital relative to risks for the time being.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.
