

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

IWATANI CORPORATION (security code: 8088)

<Outlook Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A
Outlook: from Stable to Positive

<Affirmation>

Bonds: A

Rationale

- (1) IWATANI CORPORATION (the "Company") is a major fuel trading company focusing on LPG and industrial gases. With an integrated LPG supply system from import to delivery to households, the Company boasts the largest domestic share for LPG in terms of the number of households for both wholesale and retail LPG. For industrial gases, it has strength in specialty gases such as hydrogen and helium. It has more than 80 years of experience in hydrogen, which is attracting attention as a next-generation energy source, and has a domestic sales share of approximately 70%. It also operates diverse businesses stemming from the gas business, including machinery, materials and foods.
- (2) The Company is steadily improving its performance. Despite short-term profit volatility for mainstay LPG due to changes in import prices, it has been able to secure profits over the medium term thanks to the pricing system that links selling prices to import prices. Factors like a rise in the number of direct sales customers, streamlined logistics and growth in the sales of cassette cooking stoves and canisters are also helping improve overall results. While the full-fledged expansion of the hydrogen business will likely take some more time, robust sales in the helium, machinery, materials and other businesses are expected to contribute to the near-term performance. Financial indicators are good. Although large-scale hydrogen-related investment projects may be carried out going forward, JCR predicts that they will not grow into a heavy burden in a short period of time. Moreover, equity capital is building up faster than JCR's previous assumptions, suggesting that the financial base is strong enough to fully absorb such spending. Based on the above, JCR, while affirming the ratings on the Company, changed the outlook to Positive.
- (3) Ordinary income is projected to fall 11.7% over the year to 41 billion yen in the fiscal year ending March 2023 (FY2022), first drop in eight years. However, because this projection comes primarily from the assumption that there will be no market factors as a result of a rise in LPG import prices, which helped push up the income in FY2021, income growth is otherwise expected to continue for all business segments. Although fluctuations in LPG import prices will keep having an impact into FY2023 and beyond, overall performance will likely remain solid thanks to the stable earnings base.
- (4) Equity ratio as of June 30, 2022 was 44.9%, falling a bit from 48.4% at March 31, 2022. However, this is because of an increase in working capital due to a rise in purchasing and selling prices, and JCR thus finds no particular concerns about finances at this point. Looking ahead, the Company plans to make more aggressive investments than before, but, given that stable profits and cash flow are expected, the current level of a financial structure will probably be maintained.

3

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
