

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Nippon Light Metal Holdings Company, Ltd. (security code: 5703)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A-
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) Nippon Light Metal Holdings Company, Ltd. (the “Company”) is the pure holding company of the Nippon Light Metal Group (the “Group”). The Group has strength in remarkable product development capabilities, leveraging technologies and knowledge accumulated over the years and cooperation among subsidiaries with expertise in various fields. It has varied customer bases in the automotive, transportation, electronics, food and other industries. As the controlling company for the entire Group, the Company is responsible for management strategy planning, financing arrangements, etc. Given the Group’s strong unity, the Company’s rating reflects the creditworthiness of the entire Group.
- (2) Although the business performance has not reached the levels seen before the COVID-19 pandemic, it is steadily recovering. Progress has been made in passing on raw material and fuel cost increases to sales prices, which had previously lagged, resulting in improved profitability. On the other hand, the production recovery of Japanese automakers and semiconductor manufacturing equipment makers has been delayed, and the Company’s sales volume remains at a low level, weighing on the earnings. Various strategies are being considered for future growth, such as improving the product mix, enhancing the added value of items, and strengthening overseas operations. It is necessary to confirm the details and outcomes of these initiatives. On the financial front, the Company is expected to maintain the soundness going forward. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the rating on the Company with Stable outlook.
- (3) The ordinary profit for the fiscal year ending March 2026 (FY2025) is planned to be 21 billion yen, a 6.1% year-on-year increase, marking three consecutive years of profit growth. Price revisions in multiple businesses, including the truck body business, and an increase in sales volume of foil and powder products are assumed to contribute. A gradual profit growth trend is also anticipated to continue after FY2026. Over the medium term, the automobile and semiconductor-related markets are assumed to recover, and accordingly, the Company’s sales volume is anticipated to grow. Although Nikkeikin ALMO Co., Ltd. (“Nikkeikin ALMO”) which engages in automobile parts, has continued to incur losses since its establishment, efforts toward expanding sales channels and improving productivity are progressing, and it is expected that the Company’s overall profit will be bolstered along with the improvement in Nikkeikin ALMO’s earnings.
- (4) The equity ratio at the end of the second quarter of FY2025 was 42.5%, basically the same level as at the end of FY2024. It plans to make investments for increasing production of items for which demand is expected to grow, and an increase in interest-bearing debt is anticipated. However, considering the demand trends and other factors, the timing and amount of investment were revised in May 2025, showing an investment policy that takes financial soundness into account. Additionally, since equity capital will likely continue to increase through profit accumulation, concerns about deterioration in financial conditions are small.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7
