

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

ROHM COMPANY LIMITED (security code: 6963)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: AA-
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) ROHM COMPANY LIMITED (the "Company") is a semiconductor manufacturer mainly producing LSIs for specific applications. It also handles discrete semiconductors such as diodes and transistors and passive components like resistors and tantalum capacitors. One of the Company's features is its business model using vertically integrated production system in which all the processes from product development to manufacturing is carried out within the Group, pursuing "Quality First" policy. It has recently implemented the business strategies such as market reform in which the Company focuses more on the automotive electronics market and cultivates the industrial equipment market.
- (2) Expanding the sales of products for automobiles and industrial equipment, the Company is shifting the business structure from providing products to Japanese digital home appliances manufacturers. The proportion of automotive products in the Company's product portfolio is increasing as its business model that put an emphasis on product quality matches the needs of especially the automotive product market. The earnings are expected to steadily grow for the time being given that the sales of products for Japanese digital home appliance manufacturers stopped declining and that the sales of automotive products are expected to continue to grow. Moreover, the financial base is extremely solid, which is likely to stay intact going forward. Reflecting these factors, JCR has affirmed the rating and retained Stable outlook.
- (3) Both net sales and operating income are expected to grow for the first time in three years to 390 billion yen, up 10.8% year-on-year, and 49 billion yen, up 54.0%, respectively for the fiscal year ending March 2018. The growth in net sales will be contributed by the automotive electronics business which sees an expansion of sales of infotainment, powertrain, body controller, etc., on the back of more vehicles equipped with electronics, and also by expected higher sales of products for industrial equipment and household appliances. The operating income growth will be mainly driven by the sales growth. JCR views that the business strategies of market reform, etc. has been proven to yield favorable results. Yet, JCR will closely watch whether the Company will be able to keep staying on a growth trajectory.
- (4) Shareholders' equity ratio is quite high at 86.5% as at end-September 2017. With ample equity capital, the Company has liquidity on hand exceeding 300 billion yen. Interest-bearing debt is only for insignificant amount of lease obligations. Its ongoing effort to enhance the production capability pushed up capital expenditures, which however will likely be largely covered by operating cash flow.

2 The version of the procedure or methodology used to determine the credit rating; as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(B) of Rule 17g-7

- Please see the news release.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract
