

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

The Miyazaki Bank, Ltd. (security code: 8393)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) The Miyazaki Bank, Ltd. (the "Bank") is a regional bank primarily operating in Miyazaki Prefecture with a fund volume of around 3 trillion yen. In addition to holding a more than 40% share of deposits and loans in Miyazaki Prefecture, the Bank has been increasing loans in Kagoshima Prefecture, positioning it as its home area. The rating is supported by factors including the strong operating bases, good quality of loan assets and stable earnings power. JCR believes that the Bank will maintain a certain level of earnings power and core capital ratio, despite the downward pressure from rising interest rates.
- (2) The Bank's growing loans to SMEs and housing loans in its area and the continued increase in interest on loans and bills discounted support its earnings power. Core net business income (excluding gains on cancellation of investment trusts and dividends from subsidiaries) increased significantly in the fiscal year ended March 2022 (FY2021), thanks to an increase in interest on loans and discounts and interest and dividend on securities, and an expansion in fee income from sale of investment products, etc. Core net business income for the first nine months of FY2022 also exceeded that in the same period a year earlier, but foreign currency procurement costs have recently increased in line with higher foreign currency interest rates. It is expected that system investment costs are expected to increase in addition to further deterioration of foreign currency denominated investment income in FY2023. Although the level of core net business income will decline, JCR expects it to remain stable with an increase in interest on loans and bills discounted.
- (3) The non-performing loans ratio under the Financial Reconstruction Act is low, in the middle 1% range. Credit costs have increased compared to them before the occurrence of COVID19 pandemic, but not by much. Although it is necessary to pay attention to future trends due to the uncertain economic outlook, JCR believes that the credit cost will remain at a level that can be fully absorbed by the core net business income. In securities investment, bond prices have fallen, and available-for-sale securities are in a state of valuation loss. However, the valuation losses have become much smaller at this moment, partly thanks to the replacement of low interest rate foreign currency-denominated bonds. The amount of interest rate risk and price fluctuation risk associated with securities is not small relative to capital, but it has decreased compared to the past thanks to its efforts such as selling of those securities.
- (4) The consolidated core capital ratio, adjusted for valuation losses on available-for-sale securities and other items, was in the low 8% range as of the end of September 2022, leaving some room for improvement for an "A" rated bank, but it remains unchanged from the previous level. While loans are increasing, the pace of increase in risk assets is expected to be slower than in the past due to the control of risks related to securities, and accumulation of profits will progress. From these reasons, JCR believes that the core capital ratio will be maintained at the current level.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.
