

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit ratings.

Lee & Man Paper Manufacturing Limited (security code: -)

<Affirmation>

Foreign Currency Long-term Issuer Rating:	A-
Outlook:	Stable
Local Currency Long-term Issuer Rating:	A-
Outlook:	Stable

Rationale

- (1) Lee & Man Paper Manufacturing Limited (the "Company"), listed on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, is mainly engaged in the production of paperboard and household paper, and is one of major players in China, where numerous manufacturers operate. The Company owns production facilities in Malaysia, Vietnam, and other countries in addition to six in China. Its sales in the fiscal year ending in December 2025 comprised 75% of packaging paper, 23% of tissue paper, and 2% of pulp. While packaging paper remains its principal product, sales of tissue paper have been expanding in recent years. The ratings reflect the Company's stable business foundation centered on China, its high cost competitiveness achieved through a strategic positioning of production bases and deployment of a vertically integrated business model, and its prudent financial management policy. Although the Company's profitability weakened for years through 2023, its earnings have been improving, supported by recovering demand and continued cost controls. While its future performance can be affected by macroeconomic trends and competitive conditions in China, the Company is expected to retain its solid performance as one of the leading players in the industry. Based on the above, JCR affirmed the ratings with a Stable outlook.
- (2) While China's paper pulp market is the largest in the world, its per capita consumption still remains low, leaving room for medium- to long-term growth. Established in 1994, the Company currently has production capacities of 7.58 million tons of packaging paper, 1.1 million tons of tissue paper and 950,000 tons of pulp, which underpin its stable market position in China. It has long-term relationships with its major customers and a diversified and stable client base made up of more than 1,000 customers. Its vertically integrated business model, covering waste paper collection, pulp production, and product transportation, supports both its productivity and cost competitiveness. In addition, its material procurement through use of bamboo resources and proprietary waste paper collection networks, and investments in power generation and water recycling facilities make its business structure less vulnerable to the fluctuation of raw material prices and energy costs.
- (3) The Company's consolidated sales in FY2025 increased 2.5% year-on-year to HK$26.6 billion and net profit rose 43.0% to HK$1.9 billion, marking a second consecutive year of gains in both sales and profit. Sales of packaging paper have been recovering, supported by China's economic stimulus measures and the expansion of e-commerce demand. Profitability has also been improving due to product price revisions and enhancement of production efficiency. Furthermore, sales of tissue paper have been expanding amid the rising living standards, contributing to overall earnings. Despite an expected intensification of competition in the paper industry, JCR believes that the Company will be able to maintain a stable performance, supported by its solid customer base, overseas business expansion, and cost advantages.
- (4) The Company's financial structure stays sound, with its equity ratio and net DER at the end of FY2025 respectively standing at 52.8% (50.6% at the end of FY2024) and 0.63 times (0.73 times). Although its investments related to environmental measures, energy efficiency improvement, and upgrading of the existing facilities are expected in the near term, their impact on its financial structure is likely to be limited, given its stable cash flow generation. Over the medium to long term, there is a possibility that the Company may proceed with investments aimed at business expansion. Nevertheless, JCR holds that concern over an excessive increase of financial risk is low given its solid financial management.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.
