

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

DAIKEN CORPORATION (security code: 7905)

<Assignment>

Shelf Registration: Preliminary BBB+

<Outlook Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: BBB+
Outlook: from Stable to Positive

<Affirmation>

Bonds: BBB+
CP: J-2

Rationale

- (1) DAIKEN CORPORATION (the "Company") is a major building materials manufacturer. It has strength in its capabilities to develop ecological materials by effectively using resources and create products from such materials. Enjoying high market shares for a number of products, it has a strong business base including the nationwide sales network. After forming a capital and business alliance with ITOCHU Corporation ("ITOCHU") in 2018, it acquired the shares of North American building materials manufacturers from ITOCHU and made them consolidated subsidiaries in 2019.
- (2) Earnings capacity is assumed to remain good even in the midst of the COVID crisis. In response to a decline in new housing demand in Japan, the Company is working to enhance the overseas business, as well as domestic operations in the fields of public/commercial buildings and home renovation, and is producing positive results. In the U.S., demand for building materials for the brisk housing market is projected to be strong. The acquisition of North American companies has helped build a structure whereby domestic and overseas operations generate earnings in good balance, consequently raising and stabilizing the profit level. Financial structure also shows some improvements. Based on the above, JCR, while affirming the ratings on the Company, changed the outlook to Positive. Attention will be paid to whether the Company can maintain the higher earnings capacity than before and the financial structure at around the current level, which will be reflected in the future rating decisions.
- (3) Operating income for the fiscal year ending March 2022 (FY2021) is forecast at 13.3 billion yen, jumping 51.5% from the previous year to mark a new high for two years in a row thanks to robust demand for processed wood products and higher market prices in the U.S. Although how it will be affected by high raw material costs as business recovers from the COVID crisis is of concern, JCR views that the Company is most likely to keep achieving the higher profit level than before in FY2022 and beyond, driven by strong demand for building materials and the price pass-through.
- (4) Equity ratio as of March 31, 2021 was 39.4%, improving 6.7 points from a year before. Growth in profits and cash flow generation capacity thanks in part to contribution from the aforementioned North American companies helped reduce interest-bearing debt while expanding capital with profit accumulation. Moreover, the Company is now more likely to attain the equity ratio of 40% at March 31, 2022, a target set forth in the medium-term management plan. While active investments are expected to continue, JCR assumes that the Company can maintain the current level of a financial structure as it intends to make such spending in consideration of balance with the financial structure.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. - The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's parent company or subsidiary, guarantor or other provider of credit enhancement, or the government of the issuer's business domicile, or other related parties' own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer, and the change thereby makes its business bases, financial grounds and/ or liquidity positions improve or deteriorate, and/ or making the effectiveness of guarantee and other credit enhancement improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
