

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Recruit Holdings Co., Ltd. (security code: 6098)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: AA+
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) Recruit Holdings Co., Ltd. (the "Company") is the pure holding company of the Recruit Group (the "Group"). The Group consists of the following three strategic business units ("SBU"s): HR Technology, Marketing & Matching Technology ("MMT"), and Staffing. In April 2025, the human resources domain of Matching & Solutions ("M&S") was transferred to HR Technology, and the name of M&S was changed to MMT. The Company formulates strategies and conducts business administration for the entire Group. Given the Group's unity as evidenced by governance over SBUs, the rating reflects the Group's creditworthiness. The Group is in a position to lead the industry primarily in the human resources matching market. It secures a competitive advantage by leveraging technology based on the platforms that connect individuals and corporations. With HR Technology operating the Indeed job search platform as its core, the Company has built a well-diversified revenue base.
- (2) Because of the nature of its business in human resources and sales promotions, the Company is susceptible to the impacts of economic growth and the labor market. The adjustment phase in the labor market continues mainly in the U.S., making the business environment difficult. However, supported by product evolution and operational streamlining, the Company-defined EBITDA+S (share-based payment expenses) is expanding. With developments based on the management strategy, growth centered on HR Technology is considered possible, and the Company will likely be able to maintain the strong cash flow generation capacity. Additionally, it possesses a sound financial foundation. Taking the above into account, JCR has affirmed the rating on the Company with Stable outlook.
- (3) For the fiscal year ending March 2026 (IFRS; FY2025), the Company-defined EBITDA+S is planned to be 697 billion yen, a year-on-year increase of 2.7%. Steady business performance is expected to continue beyond FY2026. HR Technology is currently experiencing a rebound in revenue on a U.S. dollar basis, even amid declining job demand in the U.S. It is also working on streamlining measures such as workforce reduction and AI utilization, and profitability is high. Within the economic cycle, U.S. job demand is expected to hit the bottom eventually, and HR technology is anticipated to see expansive growth going forward. Additionally, for the foreseeable future, MMT and domestic Staffing are also expected to continue performing well.
- (4) At the end of June 2025, the equity attributable to owners of the parent was 1.3 trillion yen, with a ratio of equity attributable to owners of the parent of 55.8%, indicating a substantially no-debt status. The Company set forth a policy to reduce the level of net cash to about 600 billion yen by March 2026. Funds are expected to be used for growth investment costs in existing businesses, strategic M&A centered on HR technology, and share buybacks. Although a large amount of share buybacks is currently being conducted, these measures are taken while adhering to a certain financial discipline; hence the strong financial base is unlikely to change.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds.
