

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

FUJI ELECTRIC CO.,LTD. (security code: 6504)

<Rating Change>

Long-term Issuer Rating: from A to A+
Outlook: from Positive to Stable
Bonds: from A to A+

Rationale

- (1) FUJI ELECTRIC CO., LTD. (the "Company") is an electronics manufacturer with power electronics technology at its core. It has various earnings sources, handling power electronics for the social infrastructure and industrial fields, power semiconductors, vending machines / store facilities, etc. It is positioned as one of the global leading manufacturers of power semiconductors, and has been making aggressive investments to increase the production capacity also including SiC recently. On the other hand, it withdrew from the magnetic disks business during the fiscal year ended March 2022 (FY2021).
- (2) Business performance is in the direction of expansion. Power semiconductors for xEVs continue performing well in response to the trend toward electrification of automobiles. In the power electronics, while orders received for component products of ED&C Components and Factory Automation are weakening, plant and systems projects remain solid. Performances of vending machines and store facilities, which were strongly affected by COVID-19 pandemic, are picking up due partly to effects of structural reforms. Both expansion of equity capital and reductions of net interest-bearing debt made progress in the financial side, financial structure have improved. Based on the above, JCR has upgraded the rating on the Company by one notch to A+ with Stable outlook.
- (3) Operating income for FY2023 is projected to be 96 billion yen (up 8.0% year-on-year), expecting to renew a record high for three fiscal years in a row. Although there are effects of growth of capital costs and personnel expenses, and higher raw material and power costs, the Company will likely absorb these by the effects of sales and production volume increase, and upward sales price revisions. By business segment, the power electronics industry, semiconductors and vending machine/store facilities will likely contribute to the profit growth. For FY2024, while certain attention needs to be paid to the business environment of ED&C components, FA components, etc., power semiconductors for xEVs, and plant and systems projects in the power electronics will likely remain solid. As a result, steady performance can be expected.
- (4) Equity capital as at the end of FY2022 expanded to the level exceeding 500 billion yen and a reduction in net interest-bearing debt also progressed due to an improvement in cash flow generation ability. Equity ratio and net DER continued to improve to 43.8% and 0.19x as at the end of FY2022 from 42.3% and 0.24x from the end of the previous fiscal year respectively. Give the Company's investment policy and cash flow generation ability, the financial structure is expected to improve further toward the end of FY2023. For FY2024 onward, the amount of capital investment may increase centering on the power semiconductors; however, the financial foundation, which is expected to be further strengthened toward the end of FY2023, will unlikely largely deteriorate.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating herewith presented by JCR is its summary opinion with regard to the likelihood of given debt payment and hence not necessarily a perfect representation of such likelihood. The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.

11 Explanation or Measure of the Potential Volatility of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(K) of Rule 17g-7

A) Business Bases

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is improvement or deterioration of the issuer's business bases, since its revenue, etc. may improve or deteriorate by the change in its business management policies, clients' preferences, competitive situation, or a technological innovation. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's parent company or subsidiary, guarantor or other provider of credit enhancement, or the government of the issuer's business domicile, or other related parties' own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer, and the change thereby makes its business bases, financial grounds and/ or liquidity positions improve or deteriorate, and/ or making the effectiveness of guarantee and other credit enhancement improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.

G) Various Events
