

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

Eurus Energy Holdings Corporation (security code: -)

<Assignment>

Long-term Issuer Rating: AA
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) Eurus Energy Holdings Corporation (the "Company") is an operating holding company engaged in renewable energy power generation and development, as well as the operation of power plants, and a wholly owned subsidiary of TOYOTA TSUSHO CORPORATION. In consideration of the probability of support from the Toyota Tsusho Group (the "Group") in light of the degree of the Group's control over and involvement in the Company and the Company's managerial importance in the Group, JCR's rating on the Company is based on the view that it is equivalent to the Group's creditworthiness. The Company is Japan's largest wind power generation company with an installed capacity of 3.43 million kW (3.08 million kW of wind power and 0.35 million kW of solar power) worldwide as of August 31, 2023.
- (2) As a renewable energy business operator, the Company has a wealth of know-how and expertise on the back of more than 30 years of experience in development and operation, thereby building a solid business foundation. The business environment surrounding renewable energy is expected to remain favorable over the long term, with demand expected to increase thanks to growing environmental awareness and policy support in countries around the world. Even though attention should be paid to the impact of unseasonable weather, the Company's business performance will probably remain solid as power plants are geographically dispersed. In terms of finances, investment burden is expected to increase due to new development, but the Company intends to maintain a certain level of discipline. Financial structure is unlikely to deteriorate significantly over the medium term. Based on the above, JCR assigned a AA rating to the Company with Stable outlook.
- (3) Development is carried out through a diligent evaluation process, and projects are carefully selected to meet certain criteria in terms of project scheme, economic efficiency, financing arrangement, etc. For overseas projects, the Company engages in development in a way that minimizes business risks by collaborating with partners who are familiar with the local area, as necessary. Domestically, it is working to build friendship and dialogue with local communities by, for instance, participating in local public events as follow-up activities after the start of operations. Based on long-term practical experience, it has a strong ability to judge good projects, and there are no power plants in particular at this point that will drag down profits.
- (4) The points of interest for the time being include progress in the development of new projects, degree of contribution to business performance, degree of impact on the financial structure due to increased investment and the status of support from TOYOTA TSUSHO. Furthermore, the possibility of changes in each country's renewable energy policies and support systems, which is difficult to indicate with a clear timeline and is also latent, could be a factor that influences creditworthiness. Expanding the large-scale offshore wind power generation business will be the key to future earnings growth.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.
