

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

FAST RETAILING CO., LTD. (security code: 9983)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: AA
Outlook: Stable
Bonds: AA

Rationale

- (1) FAST RETAILING CO., LTD. (the "Company") is a holding company that has under its umbrella operating companies including UNIQLO CO., LTD., which designs, manufactures and retails casual clothing in an integrated manner. The Group ranks as one of the world top apparel manufacturing and retail companies in terms of revenues. Its core UNIQLO brand garners support from customers by offering high-quality basic items at affordable prices. Building an advanced supply chain through partnerships with world-leading companies has been progressing. It has also been launching stores in areas where future growth is expected, expanding the store network in Asia. Given the Group's strong unity, JCR incorporates the creditworthiness of the entire Group into the Company's ratings.
- (2) Business performance of the Company is expected to remain strong. There is no change in its high competitiveness in product planning and development, manufacturing, and sales. It is promoting measures to optimize inventories and improve productivity in stores and logistics to move away from a business model that relies on discounting, which will lead to stronger earnings capacity. The Company will also make progress in strengthening its earnings base overseas. It has a high level of liquidity on hand and a strong financial base. Although it will make ongoing capital investments in stores and systems, JCR believes it will maintain a favorable financial structure backed by its high level of cash flow generation ability. In light of the above, JCR has affirmed the ratings with Stable outlook.
- (3) UNIQLO Japan's profitability is expected to improve as it works to curb discount sales and improve cost efficiency. JCR sees that expansion of e-commerce sales is important as before, and will pay attention to the trend. UNIQLO International is expected to expand mainly in Greater China and Southeast Asia. JCR will follow the progress of the expansion strategy in North America and Europe. The integration of e-commerce and stores will be important for further growth overseas as well. GU business is expected to contribute to profits by introducing trend-capturing products and strengthening cost control. Although raw material prices continue rising and the yen continues depreciating, the Company is already taking steps to address these issues and the impact on earnings is expected to be limited for the time being. JCR will monitor the trend of cost increases and sales price strategies.
- (4) The Company plans to increase its business profit (IFRS) for the fiscal year ending August 2022 (FY2022) to 280 billion yen (up 9.6% year-on-year) for the second consecutive increase. Although COVID-19 pandemic impact should be still watched, JCR expects its profit to increase, driven by UNIQLO International. The ratio of equity attributable to owners of the parent increased to 44.5% at the end of FY2021 from 39.7% at the end of FY2020, partly due to an increase in equity capital as a result of profit accumulation. Liquidity on hand is at a high level and the Company remains virtually debt free. Capital expenditures are expected to be higher than before, mainly the expenditures in the UNIQLO Japan and International and systems related projects, but JCR believes this will not have a major impact on its financial side.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the rated debt's status in the order of seniority relative to other debts caused by the improvement/ deterioration of the issuer's financial condition. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.
