

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

NIPPON THOMPSON CO., LTD. (security code: 6480)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: BBB+
Outlook: Stable
Bonds: BBB+

Rationale

- (1) NIPPON THOMPSON CO., LTD. (the "Company") is a major manufacturer of linear motion rolling guides and needle bearings, which are machinery element parts. Having strength in products using rollers as rolling element in the linear motion rolling guides, the Company holds high market shares for guides used in semiconductor-manufacturing and electronic component-mounting equipment. For needle bearings, it mainly offers products for motorcycles and general machinery, and has the position of one of the leading needle bearing manufacturers in Japan.
- (2) The Company's performance will likely be steady. Rising concern of slowing down of global economy, the order intake has passed the peak in general; however, it is not declining rapidly and the order backlog is also at a high level. From a medium-term perspective, an increase in demand for semiconductors, expansion of demand for robots in association with automatization of plants and others can be expected. Demand for the Company's products will be on the trend of expansion, while it is being affected by the impact of changes in the economic climate, in JCR's view. The financial indicators remain at good levels. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the ratings on the Company with Stable outlook.
- (3) For the fiscal year ending March 2023 (FY2022), the Company projects an operating profit of 9 billion yen, up 52.6% from the previous fiscal year, expecting profit growth for two consecutive fiscal years. While there are negative factors such as soaring raw material prices and an increase in logistic costs, steady performance is expected absorbing such negative factors by an increase in revenue and production volume, which include price-pass on measures, and also depreciation of the yen. Attention needs to be paid to the impact of customers' inventory adjustment for FY2023, JCR views that the performance will likely be steady backed by a high level of order backlog from FY2022, and others.
- (4) The equity ratio as at the end of FY2021 rose to 59.6% from 58.7% a year earlier. As the earnings and cash flow generation capacities increase, the equity capital is increasing, and interest-bearing debt is also decreasing. Looking ahead, expansion of capital investment aiming of the production capacity enhancement of core products, and others is assumed; however, the impact on the financial structure will likely be limited given the Company's cash flow generation capacity.

3 The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.
