

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

AICHI STEEL CORPORATION (security code: 5482)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A
Outlook: Stable
CP: J-1

Rationale

- (1) AICHI STEEL CORPORATION (the “Company”) is a dedicated specialty steel manufacturer of the TOYOTA Group and an equity-method affiliate of TOYOTA MOTOR CORPORATION (“TOYOTA MOTOR”; voting rights ownership ratio as of March 31, 2025: 24.7%). As a listed company, the Company conducts business activities based on a certain level of independence, and the ratings evaluate its standalone creditworthiness. The Company is developing businesses, focuses on specialty steel bars and forged products, as well as stainless steel and electronic components. Lead frames for power cards, the mainstay product of electronic components, have an extremely high share for TOYOTA MOTOR’s electrified vehicles. Overseas, in July 2025, the Company increased their equity stake in Vardhman Special Steel Limited, an Indian special steel manufacturer, to 24%, making it an equity method affiliate.
- (2) There is a prospect of securing profit at the current level for the time being. Moreover, measures aimed at future growth are being steadily implemented. The TOYOTA Group, its primary sales destination, is highly competitive, which is expected to support the sales volume of special steel bars and forged products. The special steel bar business depressed the Company’s overall earnings from the fiscal year ended March 2021 (FY2020) to FY2022, but the earning capacity has recovered due to lowering the break-even point and revising product prices. In other businesses as well, efforts toward further cost reduction and quality improvement are underway, and these efforts are expected to contribute to medium- to long-term profit growth. The Company intends to implement shareholder returns and growth investments at levels exceeding the previous ones, but a certain degree of financial soundness will likely be maintained. Based on the above, JCR has affirmed the ratings on the Company with Stable outlook.
- (3) The operating profit for FY2025 (IFRS) is planned to be 14 billion yen, a 16.5% year-on-year increase. Although a decline in selling prices is anticipated, it is forecast to be outweighed by the effects of increased sales volume, lower raw material costs and cost reductions. The concern over a decline in business performance after FY2026 is small. There is a low risk of a rapid decrease in demand for special steel bars and forged products, and the sales volume of lead frames for power cards is assumed to increase with expanding demand, primarily for hybrid vehicles.
- (4) The ratio of equity attributable to owners of the parent at the end of the first quarter of FY2025 slightly declined to 53.0% (56.6% at the end of FY2023). The acquisition of treasury stock (26.2 billion yen) reduced the equity attributable to owners of the parent. The Company plans to continue its proactive shareholder returns, and over the medium to long term, large-scale investments are projected, including a new large electric furnace line, which is expected to increase the financial strain. However, in addition to the policy of maintaining the ratio of equity attributable to owners of the parent at about 50% for FY2030, measures to restrain the increase of interest-bearing debt, such as asset sales, are also scheduled, making it unlikely that favorable financial conditions will be impaired.

The Main Assumptions and Principles used in Constructing the Procedures and Methodologies used to Determine the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(C) of Rule 17g-7

- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, to be applied to assess the likelihood of a given debt payment in light of its issuer's condition and business environment, etc. in the relevant future. There is certain limitation, however, in the time horizon that the rating foresees.
- The credit rating methodology assumes, in principle, that the factors posted in the below are particularly important for such likelihood to be determined, and that the rating determination is made by evaluating each of them not only quantitatively but also employing qualitative analyses.

A) Business Bases

The likelihood of a given debt payment is highly conditional to its issuer's business bases - how they can be maintained/ expanded into the future and thereby secure earnings and cash flows in adequacy and in a sustainable way.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the degree of the issuer's indebtedness and loss absorption capacity in terms of equity capital. Also notable is that a financial institution might see a significant loss of financial grounds as a result of changes in value of the assets under its possession.

C) Liquidity Positions

The likelihood of debt payment is highly dependent on the adequacy of the issuer's cash and other sources of repayment (liquidity positions).

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The likelihood of debt payment is affected one way or the other by the issuer's related parties such as parent company, subsidiary, guarantor, and the government of the issuer's business domicile, etc. - by their own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment

The likelihood of debt payment can be different between given debts of the same issuer. The likelihood of debt payment for an individual debt is dependent on the issuer's discretion, and/ or its rank relative to other debts of the same issuer in the order of seniority in principal/ interest payment which is determined by design as financial product or by laws, etc.

4 The Potential Limitations of the Credit Rating as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(D) of Rule 17g-7

The credit rating is not intended to estimate the probability of default or the loss on given default, either.
- The objective of the credit rating herewith presented does not include any concerns other than the likelihood of debt payment, such as risks of price changes, market liquidity, etc.
- The credit rating herewith presented is necessary to be reviewed along with possible changes of the issuer of rated objects in its business performance and/ or circumstances which include regulatory environment, and hence subject to possible alteration.
