

Japan Credit Rating Agency, Ltd. (JCR) announces the following credit rating.

TIS Inc. (security code: 3626)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A+
Outlook: Stable

INTEC INC. (security code: -)

<Affirmation>

Long-term Issuer Rating: A+
Outlook: Stable

Rationale

- (1) TIS Inc. (the "Company") is the operating holding company of the TIS INTEC Group (the "Group"). The Group boasts top-class sales in Japan's information system industry and has a customer base covering diverse industries including financial, manufacturing, distribution and energy, as well as the public sector, with the number of customers reaching approximately 15,000 companies in Japan. In particular, it has a large market share and rich development track record in the payment settlement business and thus has potential to capture numerous business opportunities arising from cashless transactions. INTEC INC. ("INTEC") is the Company's wholly owned subsidiary, accounting for roughly 20% of consolidated net sales. With strengths in CRM system for regional banks and public domains, it widely offers IT services through regional bases, customers' sites, etc. It assumes the role of the Group's core operating company. Given its management unity with the Company, INTEC's rating is the same as the Company's.
- (2) Robust performance is expected to continue for a while. Digital transformation trends remain unchanged, and demand for IT investment is tending to expand in wide-ranging industries. The Group will probably be able to absorb demand, driven by the payment settlement business, by taking advantage of the good customer bases and its own strong system development capabilities. It is also focusing on productivity improvement measures, and JCR assumes that the costs of upfront investments in service-style businesses, etc. can be absorbed with the improvement of gross profit margin. Moreover, a high awareness of financial discipline suggests that financial soundness is not likely to be impaired. Based on the above, JCR affirmed the ratings on the Company and INTEC with Stable outlook.
- (3) The Group is working on structural transformation in anticipation of changes in customers' investment needs and so forth. Attention from a medium- to long-term perspective will be paid to whether the Group can consequently increase stability in its earnings structure. While having an advantage in system construction capabilities, the Group can still expand the size of transactions with key customers by enhancing its consulting function. Moreover, it is creating service-style businesses to meet diverse market needs, and thus the formation of recurring earnings sources can be expected. Even though this requires upfront development investments, the Group will become less susceptible to trends in orders from individual customers and human resources. Furthermore, it is pressing ahead with M&As and capital/business alliances, mainly in the ASEAN region, and, if business scale becomes even greater, the effect of the diversification of earnings sources will be realized.
- (4) The Company expects the 13th consecutive year-on-year growth in operating income in the fiscal year ending March 2024 (FY2023), rising 3.5% to 64.5 billion yen. Revenue growth and profitability improvement will likely help absorb expenditures associated with upfront investments and investment in human resources. JCR assumes that these trends will continue into FY2024 and beyond and efforts will be made to achieve business growth. Meanwhile, the financial structure is favorable, as indicated by equity ratio standing at 62.6% as of September 30, 2023. The Company can expect stable cash flow generation and is striving to make growth investments while increasing shareholder returns at the same time by using its own funds. Financial management policy is not likely to change remarkably, and the current level of a financial structure will probably be maintained into the future.

A) Business Bases

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the business bases is large.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating is subject to alteration if the issuer increases/ decreases its debt/ capital or vice versa and thereby makes its individual debt payment liability less or more bearable and its loss absorption capacity into the future decreased or increased. Also, the changes in the quality of asset under the issuer's holding may affect the credit rating, since such changes could raise or lower the likelihood of future loss of the issuer's financial grounds. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change in the financial grounds and/ or asset quality is large.

C) Liquidity Positions

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's financial management policy or in the relations with fund procurement sources and the change thereby makes its liquidity positions improve or deteriorate. The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a change in the issuer's parent company or subsidiary, guarantor or other provider of credit enhancement, or the government of the issuer's business domicile, or other related parties' own conditions and/ or position of support/ assistance for the issuer, and the change thereby makes its business bases, financial grounds and/ or liquidity positions improve or deteriorate, and/ or making the effectiveness of guarantee and other credit enhancement improve or deteriorate. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large.

The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is large. Also, in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, the credit rating is subject to alteration if and when the likelihood of such non-payment is projected to increase or decrease. The resultant alteration of the credit rating could be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.

F) Rise and Fall in General Economy and Markets

The credit rating is subject to alteration if there is a rise/ fall in the general economy and/ or the markets inducing the issuer's revenues/ expenses to increase/ decrease and vice versa, etc. The resultant alteration of the credit rating is usually by a notch, with possibility of a few notches if and when the change is exceptionally large.

Information on the Sensitivity of the Credit Rating to Assumptions Made as Required by Paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(M) of Rule 17g-7

A) Business Bases

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's business bases and powers of earning or cash flow generation, etc. The resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch, as JCR speculates, but possibly as much as a few notches if the development is rapid in improvement or deterioration of the issuer's business bases on some drastic change in the operational environments, etc.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's financial grounds and asset

A) Business Bases

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's business bases and powers of earning or cash flow generation, etc. The resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch, as JCR speculates, but possibly as much as a few notches if the development is rapid in improvement or deterioration of the issuer's business bases on some drastic change in the operational environments, etc.

B) Financial Grounds and Asset Quality

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's financial grounds and asset quality. The resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch, as JCR speculates, but possibly as much as a few notches if the development is rapid in improvement or deterioration of the issuer's financial grounds and/ or asset quality on some drastic change in its business bases.

C) Liquidity Risks

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's liquidity positions. The resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch, as JCR speculates, but possibly as much as a few notches if the development is rapid in improvement or deterioration of the issuer's liquidity positions on some drastic change in its financial management policy or relations with fund procurement sources, etc.

D) Related Parties' Status and Stance of Support/ Assistance for the Issuer

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the issuer's parent company or subsidiaries, guarantor or other providers of credit enhancement, the government of the issuer's business domicile or other related parties' status and stance of support/ assistance for the issuer. The resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch, as JCR speculates, but possibly as much as a few notches if there is a major change on the part of related parties, such as replacement, disappearance, some drastic improvement/ deterioration of financial grounds/ balances, etc.

E) Order of Seniority in Debt Payment and Non-Payment Forgiven by Contract

The credit rating herewith presented could be changed if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turn out to be inaccurate with regard to the order of seniority in repayment of interests and principal. JCR assumes the resultant change of the credit rating is most likely by a notch. The change could be as much as a few notches if the issuer's financial structure differs so much and thereby the balance between debts shifted so greatly. Rating change is also possible in case of the financial products for which non-payment of interest/ principal is contractually permissible, if and when the assumptions made at the time of its determination turns out to be inaccurate. The change of the credit rating is assumed to be by a notch but often as much as a few notches.
